

MSc PROJECT IN SUB-ANTARCTIC CHILE

Fieldwork on Navarino Island in sub-Antarctic Chile

- Studying a passerine bird – The thorn-tailed Rayadito in the last forest on Earth!
- No training or specific skills needed
- Speaking Spanish is desirable but not necessary
- Projects include the impact of climate change on thorn-tailed Rayadito physiology and breeding patterns and the role of habitat quality in fitness characteristics
- Fieldwork will take place from End September / Start of October until mid-December

If you are interested in the above opportunity, please contact

Joseph Badji-Churchill at j.e.churchill@rug.nl