CFP - International Workshop Groningen, 10-12 October 2024

25 Years After Hillenbrand: New Approaches to Sources, Translation and Perspectives

Organised by Mohamad El-Merheb (Rijksuniversiteit Groningen) and James Wilson (Universität Konstanz)

Confirmed Speakers:

Paul M. Cobb, Konrad Hirschler, Natasha Hodgson, Suleiman A. Mourad and Jonathan Phillips

Carole Hillenbrand's seminal work, The Crusades Islamic Perspectives was published 25 years ago. In the time since its publication, Islamic experiences of the crusading phenomenon have been repositioned as a central element of crusader studies.

Yet questions remain about how the field moves onwards from here. We aim to gather leading experts and early career researchers in the field of crusader studies (broadly defined) including specialists on Islamic written and material sources, and other linguistic traditions (Latin, Old French, Iberian dialects and vernaculars, Syriac, Greek, Hebrew and Judeo-Arabic, and Armenian) to discuss emerging research pathways. The workshop will highlight and further develop the latest advances in the study of materiality, objects and artefacts, art history, intellectual history, historiography, translation studies, the history of emotions, digital humanities, memory and remembrance, and medievalism.

A selection of the conference proceedings will be published as part of a special collection in a leading, specialised journal. A very limited contribution towards travel and subsistence costs is available. This will be considered on a case-by-case basis, with priority being given to early career researchers and scholars from the Global South.

Abstracts of 250 words and session proposals should be submitted to: m.el-merheb@rug.nl and/or james.wilson@uni-konstanz.de. The submission deadline is 11 April 2024.

Supported by the ICOG, the Groningen Research Institute for the Study of Culture and the Simon Barton Fund of the Society for the Medieval Mediterranean.
