

Recruitment code

The code of conduct for recruitment & selection

The NVP Recruitment Code (hereinafter referred to as ‘the code’) contains the basic rules that, in the opinion of the NVP, the Dutch Network for HR-Professionals should be observed by organizations and applicants during the recruitment and selection process.

The purpose of the code is to provide a standard for a transparent and fair recruitment and selection procedure.

The organization may adapt the code and/or application there of to meet its own specific requirements if there is reason to do so.

The NVP will monitor the recruitment and selection practice of organizations and use its influence to ensure that the recruitment and selection practice is improved and maintained at the level advocated by the NVP. The code has been drawn up in consultation with the Labour Foundation (Stichting van de Arbeid).

1. UNDERLYING PRINCIPLES

1.1 The code is based on the following underlying principles:

- The applicant has a fair chance at appointment, this means equal opportunity for equal ability and the organization will choose on the basis of suitability with respect to the position;
- The applicant will be fully informed of the application procedure, the details of the vacant position and the level thereof within the organization;
- The organization will only use the information that is needed to assess suitability for the position;
- The applicant will provide the organization with the information that it needs to form a true picture of the applicant's suitability for the vacant position and of professional competence (education, knowledge and experience) and will not withhold information that the applicant knows or ought to know is important to the fulfilment of the vacancy for which the applicant is applying;
- The organization will truthfully provide the applicant with all information that he needs in order to be able to form as complete a picture as possible of the job vacancy and of the organization;
- All information provided by the applicant will be treated confidentially and with due care and the applicant's privacy will be respected in all cases;
- Both the applicant and organization are aware that information available from open sources such as the internet and information obtained from third parties is not always reliable. The information that is obtained will be discussed with the applicant with reference to the source and the organization is transparent about the obtained information;
- If an applicant submits a written complaint to the organization about the recruitment and selection process in violation with the code, the organization will respond to that complaint in writing.

1.2 The code applies to a procedure that is directed towards filling a vacancy within an organization and for which the recruitment of candidates takes place.

1.3 The code is in line with current European legislation.

2. RECRUITMENT

2.1 Should the organization decide that a vacancy exists or will exist, it will prepare a recruitment profile in which the relevant details of such vacant position are set out. This will in any event include: the duties and responsibilities accompanying such position, the level/ place of the position within the organization, the nature of the employment, working hours and duration and work location.

2.2 Job requirements may relate to professional competence (education, knowledge and experience), conduct and personal skills. Requirements of a personal kind will be set only if necessary for the proper performance of the job-related duties and to the extent they do not conflict with statutory regulations.

- 2.3 In addition to the relevant job description, the recruitment profile will state the method of application and the term within which the application must be submitted, the information to be provided by the applicant (such as education, diplomas, employment history and experience) and if applicable: any additional selection procedures and/or methods (such as psychological tests and/or assessment), a pre-employment medical examination and/or a mandatory examination of personal history.
- 2.4 The organization will give the applicant clarity of the application procedure to be followed. This means that if the organization deviates from the originally chosen procedure, these changes must be communicated and explained to the applicant. The applicant may request a deviation from the procedure if there is a well-founded reason to do so.
- 2.5 External placement agencies and organizations making use of data obtained from job sites and/or the internet must inform the person in question if using this information in databases or for placement purposes.
- 2.6 If it is necessary to set an age limit or if an affirmative action policy is being pursued with respect to certain groups, this policy and the underlying reasons will be expressly stated.

3. SELECTION

- 3.1 The organization will notify the applicant in writing as soon as possible, but no later than two weeks after expiry of the closing date:
- if the applicant has been rejected;
 - if the applicant is being invited for an interview;
 - if the application is being put on hold including indication of the time period within which further notice will follow.

If the applicant is invited for an interview or if the application has been put on hold, the applicant will be notified by the organization and they will include their current selection procedure and state the expected duration.

- 3.2 If an organization chooses to use internet or other means of selection, it ensures the accuracy and confidentiality. In the event of a confrontation with other applicants, the applicant may request a departure from the procedure in the context of confidentiality.
- 3.3 During the recruitment process the organization may require that the applicant identifies himself by means of valid identification.
- 3.4 If the organization, by way of pre-selection, makes use of a digital assessment, it ensures the accuracy and confidentiality. The candidate receives a motivated result after participation.
- 3.5 If an organization is prepared to reimburse the applicant's reasonable incurred expenses in the course of the proceedings, the organization will announce this in advance.

4. FURTHER INFORMATION

- 4.1 The organization that acquires information regarding the applicant via the internet and/or social media is aware that this information is not always correct, accurate and/or relevant.

The acquired public information will, if relevant, be discussed with the applicant with explicit reference to the source. If the organization requires further information from third parties or further research is necessary, it will request the applicant's prior consent, unless this is not required pursuant to a statutory or generally binding provision.

- 4.2 A psychological test or assessment may be conducted by or under the aegis of a psychologist with due observance of the professional code set by the Dutch Professional Association of Psychologists (NIP). The psychologist may only provide the client (the organization) with the results of the test/assessment with the applicant's prior consent.

- 4.3 A medical examination in connection with the appointment may take place only if special requirements must be set concerning the medical suitability with respect to the job performance and only at the end of the selection procedure after all other assessments of suitability have taken place. The examination will be carried out by a medical examiner with due observance of the currently applicable legal rules for such an examination.

5. END SELECTION AND DECISION

- 5.1 If in any phase of the application procedure, the organization decides that an applicant will no longer be considered for the vacancy, this applicant will receive a written and motivated notice within in two weeks of this decision.

- 5.2 The application procedure is considered to be concluded if the job vacancy has been filled by one or more applicants or if the organization has decided that the vacancy should be withdrawn. All persons who at that time are still participating in the procedure, will receive notice of this fact within two weeks.

- 5.3 Where applicable, all information received from an applicant will either be returned or destroyed within four weeks following a rejection, unless otherwise agreed with the applicant. After one year, the applicant must be contacted in order to update his/her information and to obtain his/her consent to keep the information on file for another period of time, unless otherwise agreed. External placement agencies may ask the applicant's consent to keep the application information for another period of time (to be determined), not exceeding five years. After this period of time, the information must be destroyed unless the applicant again grants permission to keep the data for a new term not exceeding five years, and is given the opportunity to update said information.

6. COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

- 6.1 The organization will inspect complaints from applicants who believe that the organization has acted in violation of the provisions of this code. The applicant will receive a written motivated response from the organization within one month.
- 6.2 The organization will annually inform the Works Council (OR), or respectively, the employee representative body (PVT), of the number, nature and the method of settlement of complaints submitted, and any recommendations made by the NVP Recruitment Code's Complaints Committee (Klachteninstantie).
- 6.3 An applicant, who has lodged a written complaint with respect to the application procedure with the organization concerned and has received either no response or an unsatisfactory response, may address the NVP with a written complaint. The NVP will then test this written complaint against this code, subject to the provisions of the complaints procedure NVP. The NVP will allow the organization against which the complaint has been lodged, the opportunity to respond to that which the applicant has put forward. The ruling of the NVP will be sent to the applicant and a copy will be sent to the organization in question.
- 6.4 The NVP will send its ruling to the organization together with a recommendation, in order to contribute to a prudent recruitment and selection policy.
- 6.5 Complaints concerning a violation of a statutory regulation will not be processed. The applicant will be informed that he may bring his complaint before the court or, in the event of discrimination prohibited by law, before the College of Human Rights (www.mensenrechten.nl), in the event of a pre-employment medical examination, before the Commission for Complaints Procedure for Pre-employment Medical Examinations (www.aanstellingskeuringen.nl) and in case of complaints about the protection of personal data, the Authority for Personal Data (www.autoriteitpersoonsgegevens.nl).
