A homely, highly interactive and engaging atmosphere

Luis Szlovak

“ After attending the introduction week in summer, I immediately felt at home at UCF. Living together on campus with my fellow students and attending small-scale lectures creates a homely, highly interactive and engaging atmosphere that I right away felt comfortable in. I am looking forward to start contributing locally to a sustainable change in society in next year’s Living Lab project and to practically apply the knowledge that has been taught in the university classes. ”
