

Fudan-Groningen Double Degree Bachelor Joint Programme in Economics and Business Economics

The best of east and west

In 2006, Fudan University in Shanghai, China, and the University of Groningen in the Netherlands launched a double degree joint programme in Economics and Business Economics (E&BE). The programme has proved a great success! It provides a solid academic education in economics and business, with specific focus on the application of economic theories to current themes in economic policy, banking and finance, market strategies of firms, economic growth and development economics, and globalization and international trade.

Are you a Fudan second-year Economics student who aspires to an international career? Do you want to broaden your horizon and experience life in the international environment of a classical European university, and at the same time acquire the knowledge, skills and competencies needed for a career as an academic teacher or researcher, as a professional economist, in the public or private sector, in China or the West? If so, then this programme is tailor-made for you.

Interested in applying?

Make sure you contact the Fudan-Groningen Double Degree Joint Programme coordinator for more information and full details about the application and selection procedure in Fudan.

www.rug.nl/feb/doubledegree

Profile

During the first two years you study at the School of Economics at Fudan University, after which you transfer to the E&BE (profile Economics or International Economics and Business) bachelor programme at the Faculty of Economics and Business in Groningen for your final two years of study (in English). After four years (2 years Fudan, 2 years Groningen) you graduate with two bachelor degrees: a Bachelor of Arts degree from Fudan and a Bachelor of Science degree from Groningen.

What are the unique advantages?

- Two internationally recognised bachelor degrees from two prestigious universities.
- An international study environment: lecturers, researchers and students from around the world converge in Groningen to exchange knowledge and theories that can be applied to economic issues worldwide.
- Self development: the E&BE programme in Groningen uses a teaching concept based on active participation of students which combines tutorials, group work, private study, working on assignments and giving presentations. You acquire knowledge through active exchange with fellow students under the supervision of tutors.
- Possibility to continue your studies in Groningen after graduation: your BSc qualifies you for direct admission to the one-year MSc Economics or MSc IE&B, or one of FEB's other Master or DD Master programmes.
- Lively student social life in the charming historic city of Groningen: plenty of affordable sport, cultural and recreational activities specially geared to student budgets; a chance for you to discover why Groningen's unique blend of traditional and modern norms, customs and values is so popular.

Entry requirements

- You have completed your first two years of study in Fudan and been selected by your Fudan coordinator.
- Your oral and written proficiency in English is satisfactory; your IELTS score is at least 6.5.
- The Netherlands Education Support Office (NESO) has issued you with a NESO Certificate

Tuition fees and scholarships

- EUR 8.300 (annual tuition fee in 2018-2019)
- A limited number of scholarships are made available each year

Faculty of Economics and Business

6400 total students
 4100 undergraduate students
 2150 graduate students
 1393 foreign degree students
 405 incoming foreign exchange students
 435 outgoing foreign exchange students
 150 PhD students
 160 Foreign partner institutions
 395 Academic staff
 168 support staff
 63 full professors
 58 associate professors
 108 assistant professors
 69 lecturers