

What is Cover?

Cover is the study association for students of Artificial Intelligence and Computing Science. Cover organises a wide range of degree-programme related as well as social activities for its members. For example, Cover organizes an Introductory Camp at the beginning of each academic year where first-year students of our degree programmes can get to know each other as well as senior students.

Cover also organises lots of social activities, including drinks every first Wednesday of the month. In addition, the association has many specialised committees that organise fun activities for members, for example a LAN party twice a year. In order to sign up for Cover, so you can attend all these awesome activities and to check an up-to-date overview of all these activities, go to www.svcover.nl/join. We hope to see you during the Kick-off Week and many times after that at Cover activities! If you have any questions, you can always send an email to Cover at board@svcover.nl.

Introductory Camp 2018/19

As well as its social activities, Cover also organises several study-related activities, including monthly activities in collaboration with companies, such as lectures and workshops. In addition, an excursion abroad is held once a year. Previous excursions have visited Stockholm, Edinburgh, Antwerp and the USA to name just a few.

Cover maintains lively contacts with many universities and companies both in the Netherlands and abroad, and thus offers its members a wide knowledge network. Lectures about interesting topics are held regularly, and once a year a large symposium about a degree programme-related theme is organised. Members of Cover are also entitled to discounts on textbooks. You can order your books well before you need them!

Company visit to TomTom

Cover has over 800 student members, about one-seventh of whom are active in committees or on the board. A committee consists of a number of members who perform certain duties for the association. For example, the StudCee organises study support lectures to help you pass exams each period, ActiviTee organises the majority of all social activities and the ExCee organises the annual excursion abroad. Joining a committee will enable you to contribute to the study association in a fun way, while making new friends along the way!

One of the goals of the association is to help improve the study programmes in collaboration with the staff members. Furthermore, we hope to welcome a whole new batch of enthusiastic first-year students, who will experience the advantages of what we have to offer. Become involved in the association and improve your student experience!
