The Teaching and Examination Regulations set out the specific rights and obligations that apply to each degree programme taught at the University of Groningen, for both students and the degree programme. The University-wide section of the Student Charter sets out the rights and obligations that apply to all students.

These Regulations were decreed by the Board of the Faculty of Theology and Religious Studies on August 30, 2018 and approved by the Faculty Council and the Programme Committee where required by law on August 28, 2018

This is a translation of the original Teaching and Examination Regulations for the Master's degree programme in Theology and Religious Studies, drawn up in Dutch by the Faculty of Theology and Religious Studies of the University of Groningen in August 2018. No rights can be derived from this translation and the Dutch text shall be binding in all cases.
Section 1  General provisions

Article 1.1 – Applicability of the Teaching and Examination Regulations
1. These Regulations for the academic year 2018-2019 apply to the teaching, examinations and final assessment of the Master’s degree programme in Theology and Religious Studies, CROHO degree programme code 60824, hereinafter referred to as the degree programme, and to all students enrolled in this degree programme.
2. The degree programme is provided by the Faculty of Theology and Religious Studies of the University of Groningen, hereinafter referred to as the Faculty.
3. These Teaching and Examination Regulations also apply to students of other degree programmes, faculties or institutes of higher education, insofar as they follow course units in the degree programmes offered by the Faculty to which these Regulations apply.
4. Course units that students of the degree programme as referred to in Article 1.1 follow in other degree programmes or at other faculties or institutes of higher education are subject to the Teaching and Examination Regulations of that programme, faculty or institute.
5. These Regulations also apply to the admission of students to the Pre-Master’s programmes referred to in Article 2.3 with a view to following the degree programme. In all other respects, the relevant Bachelor’s OER will apply to students who are enrolled in a Pre-Master’s programme.

Article 1.2 Definitions
The following definitions apply to these Regulations:

b. Student: a person registered at the University for the purpose of taking course units and/or examinations and the final assessment leading to the conferral of a university degree
c. Degree programme: the Master’s degree programme referred to in Article 1.1 of these Regulations, comprising a coherent set of course units;
d. Course unit: a syllabus unit or other part of the degree programme within the meaning of Article 7.3 of the Act, included in OCASYS;
e. OCASYS: the University of Groningen’s online course units catalogue;
f. ECTS credit point: a credit point within the meaning of the Act. The student workload of each course unit is expressed in ECTS credit points, whereby 1 ECTS is equivalent to a student workload of 28 hours;
g. Pre-Master’s programme: a programme intended to remedy deficiencies for admission to the degree programme;
h. Test or examination: a test of the knowledge, understanding and skills of students, including an assessment of the results;
i. Final assessment: the final assessment for the Master’s degree which is considered to be passed once all the requirements of the entire Master’s degree programme have been satisfied;
j. Academic year: the period of time that starts on 1 September and ends on 31 August of the following year;
k. Semester: part of the academic year, either starting on 1 September and ending on a date to be determined by the Board of the University, or starting on the aforementioned date determined by the Board of the University and ending on 31 August;
l. Practical: a practical exercise, as referred to in Article 7.13 of the Act, in one of the following forms:
   - a thesis
   - a written assignment or a draft design
   - a written paper or draft
   - a research assignment
   - participation in a field trip or an excursion
   - completion of a placement/internship
   - participation in other educational activities designed to teach certain skills

m. Board of Examiners: an independent body with the duties and powers as stated in Articles 7.11, 7.12, 7.12b and 7.12c of the Act, including assessing whether the requirements of the final assessment have been met;

n. Examiner: a person appointed by the Board of Examiners to set examinations and determine their results

o. Admissions Board: the board that has decision-making powers in matters concerning admission to the degree programme on behalf of the Faculty Board.

p. Programme committee: the consultative and advisory body that fulfils the duties referred to in Article 9.18 of the Act.

The other terms will have the meaning that the Act ascribes to them.

Section 2 Admission

4. The Appendix sets out the content and modes of instruction of the compulsory parts of the various tracks in more detail, including the level of knowledge students will need to successfully take the course unit in question.

Article 3.7 Electives

1. On the basis of a well-founded request by a student, the Board of Examiners may grant prior permission to:
   a. replace a course unit in the examination programme with another course unit offered by the University of Groningen or another university in the Netherlands or abroad that dovetails well with the degree programme, or
   b. to use one or more course units followed at the University of Groningen or another university in the Netherlands or abroad as electives in the degree programme.

2. When assessing such a request, the Board of Examiners will in any case evaluate the coherence of the set of course units (or part thereof) and the level of the course units followed.

Section 4 Examinations and final assessment of the degree programme; general provisions

Article 4.1 Board of Examiners and examiners

1. The Board of Examiners is the independent body that determines whether individual students have the knowledge, understanding and skills required to be awarded the degree.

2. The Faculty Board appoints the members of the Board of Examiners on the basis of their expertise in the field of the degree programme (or group of degree programmes) in question.

3. The Board of Examiners must comprise at least:
   a. one member who is a lecturer in the degree programme (or in one of the degree programmes that are part of the relevant cluster of degree programmes)
   b. one member from outside the degree programme (or in one of the degree programmes that are part of the relevant cluster of degree programmes)

4. Members of the Board or other people who have financial responsibilities within the institution may not be appointed as members of the Board of Examiners.

5. The Board of Examiners will appoint examiners to set examinations and determine the results.

6. The Board of Examiners will draw up the Rules and Regulations of the Board of Examiners rules for assessing and determining the results of examinations and final assessments.
Article 4.2 Assessment plan
An assessment plan approved by the Faculty Board is part of the TER of each degree programme. The assessment plan comprises the following:
1. the learning outcomes of the degree programme;
2. the course units of the degree programme with their student workload in ECTS and the learning outcomes of each course unit;
3. the relationship between course units and learning outcomes;
4. the assessment mode to be used and the assessment moments for each course unit;
5. the assessment procedures and assessment criteria used;
6. the right of inspection;
7. who is/are responsible for the implementation of the various components of the assessment policy;
8. the method of regular evaluation.

Article 4.3 Examination; general
1. Every course unit has a related examination.
2. An examination can comprise a number of partial exams. The result of these partial exams together determine the examination result.
3. Examinations, both interim and final, provide students with the information they need to assess whether they have achieved or will achieve the required learning outcomes.
4. A resit opportunity is offered for each partial exam (summative assessment) of a course unit. This resit may comprise resits of various different partial exams previously taken. The lecturer is responsible for the design of such resits.
5. The results of an examination are given as pass or fail, in numbers on a scale of 1 to 10, expressed as 5.5 or more for a pass and 5.4 or less for a fail.
6. The following stipulations apply to participation in course units and practicals with compulsory attendance:
   1. In this article, ‘practicals’ are understood to be practical exercises as referred to in Article 1.2.d and their associated lectures.
   2. If a practical incorporates lectures, an 80% attendance requirement will apply to these lectures.
   3. Students who attend fewer than 80% of the lectures will not be allowed to sit the examination for the course unit in question and must repeat the course unit.
   4. The stipulations in Article 4.3.6 concerning the practicals c.q. the course units with compulsory attendance will apply if they are listed in the course unit description in Ocasys.
   5. In exceptional cases, the Board of Examiners may decide to deviate from the stipulations of the previous articles in favour of a student. Such a decision must be supported by reasons.
7. The following stipulations apply to participation in examinations:
   1. Students who do not satisfy the stipulations listed in Articles 4.3.6.1 to 4 are banned from participating in the examination.
   2. In accordance with the stipulations of Article 4.3.6 with regard to compulsory attendance at practicals or course units, students who attend fewer than 80% of the lectures of the following course units will be banned from participation in the examination:
      - Spiritual Care: roles and methods
      - Psychopathology and Religion
- Religion, Violence and Conflict Resolution
- Theological Heritage

8. Papers that are not submitted before the original deadline will fall under the resit regulations and must be submitted before the second deadline, which falls in the resit period. One full point (1.0 on a scale of 1-10) will be deducted from the mark awarded such a paper.

9. Papers that are submitted before the original deadline but are awarded a fail mark can be resat/improved and must then be resubmitted before the second deadline, in the resit period of the relevant teaching block. One full point (1.0 on a scale of 1-10) will be deducted from the mark awarded such a resat paper.

10. Papers that are not submitted before the resit deadline will not be marked. The student in question will have to write a new paper on a new topic in the next academic year. An examination that has been passed (5.5 or more) may not be taken again.

11. If a student has completed all the compulsory parts of a course unit to the best of his or her ability but has still not passed, then the examiner may give him or her the opportunity to take a supplementary or replacement test. Granting this opportunity is subject to approval by the Board of Examiners.

Article 4.4 – Compulsory order of examinations

The examinations for the course units listed below may not be taken until after the examinations for the associated course units have been passed:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Course unit name</th>
<th>after has been passed</th>
</tr>

Article 4.5 Examination frequency and periods

1. a. A student who registers for a course unit is automatically registered for the examination for that course unit.
   b. Notwithstanding the provisions of Article 4.5.a, students can register and deregister for examinations during certain periods to be further defined.
   c. There will be an opportunity to sit one examination and one resit for the course units listed in Article 3.6. For partial examinations, one resit for all partial examinations together may be opted for.

2. The periods in which examinations can be sat are listed in the Student Handbook and/or OCASYS. Partial exams can also be taken outside the period indicated.

3. An exam in conclusion of a course unit must be taken not later than the end of the academic year (examination term)
4. If the course unit is not completed within the examination term, the exam results for that course unit will lapse and the student in question must take the entire course unit again the following year. This rule counts also for papers, these must be rewritten on a new topic.

5. Notwithstanding the provisions of Article 4.5.1, there will be only one opportunity in a certain year to take the examination for a course unit not taught in that year.

6. Students may resit an examination for a course unit that is no longer offered at least twice during the first year after it has been removed from the curriculum.

Article 4.6 Assessment of placement or research placement
The assessment of the placement or research placement will be conducted by the Faculty supervisor, on the basis of the placement report and after consultation with the supervisor at the host institution or placement organization. Assessment of placements conducted within the framework of the Master's degree programme in Religion, Health and Wellbeing-Spiritual Care is also in consultation with the professional development supervisor.

Article 4.7 Form of Examinations
1. Examinations will be taken in the manner stated in OCASYS.
2. At the student’s request, the Board of Examiners may allow an examination to be taken in a form different from that stated in Article 4.7.1.
3. Mock versions of each examination will be made available.

Article 4.8 Oral Examinations
1. Unless the Board of Examiners decides otherwise, an oral examination may only be taken by one student at a time. A second examiner may attend the oral exam at the request of the student and/or the examiner. In case the oral exam is held by an examiner the exam must be audio-recorded. Recordings will be deleted immediately after the (normal) period for perusal.
2. Oral examinations are not public, unless the Board of Examiners stipulates otherwise or the student motivates his objection to the public nature of the examination.

Article 4.9 Marking of examinations and publication of marks
1. After an oral examination, the examiner will assess the examination immediately and provide the student with a statement upon request.
2. The examiner will mark a written examination within ten working days of the day on which it was taken, and will provide the Faculty’s Administration Office with the necessary details for registration of the result in Progress.
3. The examiner will mark a paper which is submitted in time within fifteen working days of the deadline for submission, unless the examiner and the student have made other agreements. The examiner will provide the Faculty’s Administration Office with the necessary details for written confirmation of the result to be sent to the student.
4. If an examination is taken in a form other than oral or written, the Board of Examiners will determine in advance how and when the student will receive written confirmation of the result.
5. The written confirmation of the result of an examination will inform students of their right of inspection, as stipulated in Article 4.11.1, as well as of his right to appeal.
6. Students can lodge an appeal against the results of an examination with the Central Portal for the Legal Protection of Student Rights (CLRS) within 6 weeks of the date on which the result was announced.

Article 4.10 Validity of course units

1. Completed course units remain valid indefinitely.
2. A. Contrary to the provisions of Article 4.10.1, the Board of Examiners may decide that the validity of a course unit is limited. The Board of Examiners can only decide that a course unit is no longer valid if the student's skills and knowledge are demonstrably outdated. The Board of Examiners may then decide to require a student to take a supplementary or substitute examination before allowing that student to progress to the final assessment.
   B. In the event of extraordinary personal circumstances the validity term will be extended to include the period during which the student in question is receiving support from the Graduation Fund.
3. Partial examinations and assignments passed within a course unit that has not been successfully completed will lapse at the end of the academic year in which they were passed.

Article 4.11 Right of Inspection

1. On request, students have the right to inspect their marked work during a period of six weeks after the results of a written examination have been made known. Also on request, they will be provided with a copy of the work at cost price.
2. Within the timeframe stipulated in Article 4.11.1, any interested person may request that they be allowed to peruse the examination paper and, if possible, the assessment criteria.
3. The Board of Examiners can determine that this inspection or perusal will take place at a certain place and at two set times at least. If students can prove that they were prevented from attending at the indicated place(s) and time(s) by force majeure, they will be offered another opportunity, preferably within the period stated in Article 4.11.1.

Article 4.12 Thesis

1. A thesis can in principle only be used for one University of Groningen degree programme. Full or partial exemptions for a degree programme’s thesis may be granted by the Board of Examiners based on a thesis written for another degree programme.
2. Theses are stored by the Faculty Board for a period of at least 7 years.
3. Students will be given the opportunity to submit a final-year thesis (at least) twice per academic year.
4. The period(s) during which students can write theses will be published in the Student Handbook and/or OCASYS.
5. More detailed regulations on the design, content, time frame and assessment of the thesis can be found in the Regulations for Bachelor’s and Master’s theses, which form part of these Teaching and Examination Regulations. This includes, for example, the following regulations:
   - The thesis must be completed within the current academic year. Students who do not complete their thesis within the academic year in which they started it must submit a reasoned request for extension of the completion term to the Board of Examiners. Upon the student's request, the Board of Examiners may take the student's extraordinary circumstances into account in its assessment of a request for extension, as well as his/her study behaviour, any agreements made or study plan drawn up in consultation with the study advisor, and the student’s plan for completing the thesis. The Board of Examiners will also consult the supervisor before making a decision.

- Thesis terms can be extended for a period of up to one semester at a time.
- No more than two extensions will be granted.
- The draft version of the thesis must be submitted in early June, the definitive version on 1 July and the revised version on 1 August.
- At least 3 but no more than 7 supervision meetings are held for Master’s theses.

6. The final mark of the master thesis should be at least a (not rounded off) 6.0.
7. If by the end of the period referred to in Article 4.11.4 the assessors are of the opinion that the thesis cannot be awarded a pass mark, the student will be given one opportunity to revise the work within a time frame defined by the degree programme. This revision is formally the resit.
8. The Board of Examiners is the only body that can deviate from the provisions of this Article at the written request of a student.
9. Students must have successfully completed the research methods course unit of the relevant track in order to qualify for supervision and assessment of the final-year thesis for the degree programme.

Article 4.13 Degree

1. A student who has satisfied all the requirements of the final assessment shall be awarded the degree of ‘Master of Arts’.
2. The degree awarded will be indicated on the degree certificate.

Article 4.14 Honours (‘Cum Laude’/‘Summa Cum Laude’)

1. The Board of Examiners shall determine whether or not the Master’s degree certificate will be awarded an honours predicate.
2. The following conditions apply:
   a) Cum laude: the mark for the thesis must be at least 8.0 as well as the weighted average (not rounded off) for all course units, excluding the thesis, within the examination programme approved by the Board of Examiners is greater than or equal to 8.0
   b) Summa cum laude: the mark for the thesis must be at least 9.0 as well as the weighted average (not rounded off) for all course units, excluding the thesis, within the examination programme approved by the Board of Examiners is greater than or equal to 9.0
3. No honours are awarded if the student workload of the exemptions in ECTS credit points is more than half the total number of ECTS credit points for the degree programme. This stipulation does not apply to Double Degree programmes.
4. Honours may only be awarded if the examinations for the course units were taken only once.
5. Honours may only be awarded if no single course unit was awarded a mark less than 7.0.
6. No honours are awarded if a decision by the Board of Examiners has been taken to the effect that a student is no longer eligible for an honours predicate because fraud/plagiarism has been detected.
7. In certain circumstances, the Board of Examiners may depart from the provisions set out in Articles 4.14.2-6.
Article 4.15 Final Assessment
1. The degree programme is concluded with a final assessment.
2. a. If the student’s study programme has been approved, the Board of Examiners will determine the result of the final assessment as soon as the student has passed all the required examinations. The Board of Examiners may define terms to this end. The result of the final assessment indicates that the student has acquired the necessary academic training. The Board of Examiners will issue a degree certificate indicating this.
b. If a student fails to meet the relevant deadlines for approval of the study programme referred to under a, the Board of Examiners may postpone his or her graduation date. This date may be in the academic year following the year in which the last examination was passed.
3. Before the result of the final assessment can be determined, the Board of Examiners may decide to test the student’s knowledge of one or more course units or components of the degree programme, if and in as much as the marks for the relevant examinations provide a reason for doing so.
4. By determining the result of the final assessment, the Board of Examiners also commits itself to a speedy processing of the degree certificate ceremony.
5. If a student wishes to postpone the date of graduation due to extra examinations that still need to be taken, he or she must submit a request to this end to the Board of Examiners in good time.
6. The graduation date is the date on which the final assessment is passed, as determined by the Board of Examiners in accordance with the provisions of Article 4.15.2, and not the date on which the degree certificate is presented to the student.
7. The successfully passed final assessment as referred to in Article 4.15.1, and all assignments submitted within the framework of this assessment, will be kept on file by the Faculty Board for a period of at least 7 years.

Section 5 Examinations and final assessment of the degree programme; specific provisions

Article 5.1 Examination provisions in special circumstances
1. If not granting a student an individual examination provision would lead to an ‘exceptional instance of unfairness of overriding nature’, the Board of Examiners may decide to grant such a provision contrary to the stipulations of Article 4.4.
2. Requests for individual examination provisions, including documentary evidence, must be submitted to the Board of Examiners as soon as possible.

Article 5.2 Examinations and functional impairments
1. Students with a functional impairment will be given the opportunity to take examinations in a form that will compensate as far as possible for their individual impairment. If necessary, the Board of Examiners will seek expert advice from the student counsellor of the Student Service Centre (SSC) before making a decision.
2. With regard to examinations for electives taken by students with a functional impairment, the Board of Examiners of the degree programme that sets the examination will comply with the facilities permitted by the Board of Examiners of the degree programme for which the student has registered.
Article 5.3 Exemptions
1. At the student’s request, the Board of Examiners, having discussed the matter with the examiner in question, may grant exemption from an examination on condition that the student:
   a. has completed part of a university or higher vocational degree in the Netherlands or abroad that is equivalent in content and level,
   b. can demonstrate by work experience that he/she has sufficient knowledge and skills with respect to the course unit in question.
2. The validity period of exemptions granted for course units or parts thereof is identical to that of examination results.

Article 5.4 Request for additional resit
1. Students may submit a request for an additional resit to the Board of Examiners.
2. Such a request may be granted if the student in question failed the relevant exam due to extraordinary circumstances and if not granting the request for an additional resit would result in unacceptable study delay.
3. The following criteria apply to granting a request for an additional resit for the last course unit in the degree programme:
   - it must concern the last examination result needed
   - not granting the request would result in study delay of at least one semester
   - the examinee must have taken the last two regular exam opportunities for the course unit in question.

Article 5.5 Authority of the Board of Examiners regarding electives offered by other degree programmes
1. A request to take an elective at another degree programme must be approved by the Board of Examiners of the student’s own degree programme.
2. The Board of Examiners of the other degree programme is authorized to set and assess the examinations and decide upon requests for alternative exam regulations.

Article 5.6 Open Degree Programme
1. Students may choose to follow a degree programme’s Open Degree Programme, which deviates from the regular track(s) of the degree programme. An Open Degree Programme must always be approved in advance by the Board of Examiners of the degree programme in which the student is registered.
2. The following additional requirements apply to Open Degree Programmes:
   a. Meet the learning outcomes of the master’s degree programme
   b. Meaningful relationship

Article 5.7 Cheating and plagiarism
1. Cheating is an act or omission by a student designed to partly or wholly hinder the forming of a correct assessment of his or her own or someone else’s knowledge, understanding and skills.
2. Cheating also includes plagiarism, which means copying someone else’s work without correct reference to the source.
3. If a student cheats, the Board of Examiners may exclude that student from participation in one or more examinations or final assessments for a maximum of one year.

4. In the event of serious cheating, the Board of Examiners can advise to the Board of the University to permanently terminate a student’s registration in the degree programme.

5. The Board of Examiners will set out its course of action in the event of cheating in its Rules and Regulations.

Article 5.8 Invalid examination

In the event of irregularities with regard to an examination that are so serious that an accurate assessment of the examinee’s knowledge, understanding and skills cannot be made, the Board of Examiners may declare the examination invalid for either an individual examinee or a group of examinees. The stipulations in the Rules and Regulations of the Board of Examiners also apply.

Article 5.9 Course units completed elsewhere

a. A Master’s degree can only be awarded if at least half of the course units of the degree programme were followed at the Faculty during the student’s period of registration as a student at the University of Groningen.

b. For Double Degree Master’s degree programmes offered together with an institution abroad, the Board of Examiners determines before the start of the programme which part (%) of the programme actively must be taken at the faculty during the registration as student at the RUG.

Article 5.10 Termination of enrolment (Iudicium Abeundi)

1. In extraordinary cases of reprehensible behaviour of, and/or statements made by a student, the Board of the University may, on the recommendation of the Board of Examiners or the Faculty Board, terminate that student’s registration.

2. The Board of the University will not make a decision as referred to in Article 5.10.1 until after the student in question has been given the opportunity to respond to the proposed decision, the interests of the student and the institution have been carefully assessed and it is reasonable to assume that the student’s behaviour or statements prove him/her unsuitable for one or more of the professions which he/she is being trained in his/her degree programme, or for the practical preparation for the profession. In such cases the Faculty Board, the Board of Examiners and the Board of the University will follow the Protocol Iudicium Abeundi [Protocol for termination of registration] as approved by the Nederlandse Federatie van Universitaire Medische Centra [Netherlands Federation of University Medical Centres] on 1 November 2010.

Section 6 Study progress supervision

Article 6.1 Study progress administration

1. The Faculty Board is responsible for registering the individual results of students.

2. The Faculty Board will provide each student with an overview of his results via the registration system.

Article 6.2 Study progress supervision
The Faculty Board will organize the introduction and the study progress supervision of students enrolled in the degree programme, partly to facilitate their progress and also with a view to identifying potential study options within and outside the degree programme.

Section 7  Transitional and final provisions

Article 7.1 Transition from ‘old style’ to ‘new style’
Students who, immediately before the introduction date of these regulations, were registered without interruption for the Master’s degree programme in Theology, Religious Studies or Spiritual Care (programme before 2012) or had been provisionally admitted to one of these degree programmes, may participate in the Master’s degree programme in Theology and Religious Studies (programme as of 2012) in accordance with these Teaching and Examination Regulations with the approval of the Board of Examiners and on the following conditions:
  a. prior results must dovetail with one of the Master’s degree programmes. The Board of Examiners will base its decisions in this regard on the course units listed in Appendix 1 of these Regulations.
  b. participation is possible insofar as the introduction of the degree programme and the examinations according to these regulations allow this.
  c. participation is possible to the extent that a student is definitively admissible to the Master's degree programme in accordance with Article 2.1.1. and 2.1.2.

Article 7.2 Amendments
1. Any amendments to these Regulations will, following a recommendation by and/or upon the approval of the Programme Committee and the Faculty Council, be confirmed by the Faculty Board in a separate decree.
2. Any amendments to these Regulations will not apply to the current academic year, unless it may reasonably be assumed that the amendment will not harm the interests of students.
3. In addition, amendments may not influence the following to the detriment of students:
   - any other decision taken within the meaning of these Regulations concerning a student.

Article 7.3 Publication
1. The Faculty Board will duly publish these Regulations, as well as any amendments to them.
2. Copies of the Teaching and Examination Regulations are available from the Faculty Office. These documents can also be found on the Faculty website via the Student Portal or www.rug.nl/ggw/education/studyguide/generator/gids/course-catalogue.

Article 7.3 Evaluation
The Faculty Board will ensure that the OER is regularly evaluated, assessing at least – for the purpose of monitoring and if necessary adapting the student workload – the amount of time students need to complete their duties as set out therein.
Article 7.4 Date of Commencement
These Regulations will take effect on 1 September 2018.

In addition, an assessment procedure applies to specialization A1 (Religion, Health and Wellbeing-Geestelijke Verzorging), which must be completed before the start of the Master’s degree programme. The assessment procedure will comprise tests paid for by the student, a role play (dialogue skills and group dynamics) and an interview with a psychologist. A positive assessment after the procedure is a condition for admission to the Master’s degree in Religion, Health and Wellbeing-Spiritual Care. Further, a letter of motivation including a reflection on the portfolio forms part of the admission procedure to this master programme.

1. Students wanting to be admitted to the track A (Religion, Health and Wellbeing-Ethics and Diversity), B, C or D must submit a file to the Admissions Board of the Master’s degree as well as a letter of motivation for the specialization in question, a CV, the list of marks for the degree programme on which admission will be based, and an academic paper.

2. In addition to the provisions of Article 2.1 and written above, admission to the track A (Religion, Health and Wellbeing-Ethics and Diversity), B, C and D may include studying a reading list for the specialization in question of 800 to 1000 pages.

3. Transferring from one of the specializations to another is only possible with the permission of the Board of Examiners.

4. Course units already passed in one of the tracks A, B, C or D will not result in compensation in a different specialization of the Master’s degree in Theology and Religious Studies at the University of Groningen, unless the Board of Examiners gives permission.

Appendix 3 Learning outcomes master’s degree programme Theology and Religious Studies (Article 3.1.2)

LEARNING OUTCOMES OF THE MASTER’S DEGREE PROGRAMME
Graduates of the Master’s degree programme will have achieved the following learning outcomes in terms of knowledge, skills and attitude.

Knowledge and understanding
1. Graduates have demonstrated in-depth knowledge and understanding of the most important scholarly debates, theoretical perspectives and relevant methodologies in one subfield (track) of theology and religious studies (all course units)
2. Graduates have demonstrated extensive knowledge and understanding of scholarly debates, theoretical perspectives and methodologies in the field of at least one theme within a subfield (track) of theology and religious studies (electives, thesis)

Applying knowledge and understanding
3. Graduates can independently carry out an academic analysis of source materials and texts in the field of theology and religious studies (course units, thesis)
4. Graduates can independently and in sound and scholarly fashion collect and process sources and literature in analogue or digital catalogues and analogue or digital databases in a subfield of theology and religious studies (various course units, in particular the course unit on Research Methods, thesis)
5. Graduates have demonstrated their familiarity with the research methods commonly used in a subfield (track) of theology and religious studies and the ability to use these in research (various course units, in particular the course unit on Research Methods, thesis)
6. Graduates can independently design and implement a research project within a specific subfield (track) of theology and religious studies (course unit on Research Methods, thesis)
7. Graduates can independently apply their acquired knowledge and understanding to specific products that are relevant in professional contexts (specific course units, placement)

Forming judgements
8. Graduates can weigh historical, methodological, social and ethical concerns in a specific subfield (track) of theology and religious studies in analyses of complex issues and independently form a judgement about the matter (all course units, thesis)
9. Graduates can independently form a judgement of their own academic responsibility in a subfield of theology and religious studies (all course units, in particular the course unit on Research Methods, thesis)
10. Graduates can critically reflect on current scholarly and social debates regarding the role of religion in society (all course units)

Communication
11. Graduates can translate professional insights and the results of their own and other people’s academic research orally and in writing for a broad audience of specialists and non-specialists (all course units)
12. Graduates can report on their own research in a manner that satisfies current academic standards within the relevant subfield of theology and religious studies (thesis)

Learning skills
13. Graduates have demonstrated academic and professional skills, particularly with regard to individual and group work. They can evaluate and improve their work, partly in response to feedback, and formulate and adhere to agreed plans (all course units)
14. Graduates can independently gather information about relevant professional sectors and integrate their acquired knowledge and skills in relevant positions or working environments (placement)

PROGRAMME OBJECTIVES AND LEARNING OUTCOMES SPIRITUAL CARE
Graduates of the specialization in Spiritual Care qualify for registration in the Quality Register for Spiritual Care (SKGV: Stichting Kwaliteitsregister Geestelijke Verzorgers). The learning outcomes of this specialization are as follows.
Graduates who successfully complete this specialization:

1. have demonstrated knowledge and understanding of the methods, theories and academic/scholarly debates in the field of spiritual care
2. have demonstrated knowledge and understanding of the complex organizations in which spiritual care counsellors are active
3. have demonstrated in-depth knowledge and understanding of the psychological, ideological and ethical aspects of religion, health and wellbeing and their interrelationships in the Western multicultural and multi-faith society
4. have demonstrated critical understanding (based on (1-3)) of the way in which people create meaning and belief in their specific context and the role of a spiritual care counsellor in this process
5. can collaborate with colleagues and representatives of other disciplines thanks to their understanding of the work fields of various closely related professions
6. possess the communicative and methodological skills required to work as spiritual care counsellors
7. have the ability to internally link personal expertise, professionalism and life orientation in a thought-through and credible manner.

1. Conducting Research on Religion, Health and Wellbeing
   (Conducting Research on Religion, Health and Wellbeing)

   Contact: dr. A. Visser-Nieraeth
   Lecturers: prof. dr. T.H. Weir, dr. B.M.H.P. Mathijssen, dr. A. Visser-Nieraeth (Contact)
   Programmes: Ma Programme in Spiritual Care year 1, Ma Programme Religion, Health and Wellbeing - Ethics and diversity year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1, parttime Ma in Spiritual Care year 2
   Objective: After completing this module, the students are able to: · Prepare a problem analysis and conceptual framework
   · Formulate a research question
   · Operationalize the research question in sub-question and a research design
   · Interpret findings from a quantitative study that uses correlational and/or meta-analytical analyses
   · Use methods of data collection and corresponding methods of analysis relevant to their research question
   · Critically reflect upon the scientific and practical implications of research findings
   Content: This course will prepare students for their master thesis research and report. It will introduce the notion of the research cycle, and will focus on the sub-cycle of the research design. The course is designed in such a way that it will take students through the steps of designing their own research, in consultation with their supervisors. The course will include training in specific methods for data collection and analysis fitting the research question and disciplinary approach (psychology, anthropology, history or philosophy). Finally, research ethics will be discussed and students using empirical methods will have to write an ethical statement before their research proposal can be graded and approved.
   Students have to pass this course in order to qualify for the final phase of research and writing for their thesis.
   Credits (EC): 5
   Period: 1.2
   Format: lectures and seminars, assignment(s)
   Assessment: opdrachten
   Remarks: Research master students, have a different course code: THRM-RMRHW. For these students there will be formulated an extra assignment. For exact assessment components please consult the study guide.

2. Forced Migration
   (Forced Migration)

   Lecturer: wordt nader bekendgemaakt
   Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern(Modern) year 1, Ma Programme Religion, University of Groningen, Faculty of Theology and Religious Studies
Conflict and Globalisation year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1

Objective:
At the conclusion of this course, students will be able to:
- Identify specific issues related to ‘religion’ that impact the lives of people on the move, including causes of flight and sources of support.
- Analyse and critique the ways in which religion is addressed in laws and policies related to people on the move, including international and national laws, intergovernmental organisations, NGOs and grassroots movements.
- Understand the impact of secular worldviews on how issues around religion are approached specifically within the context of forced migration.
- Develop alternative responses to forced migration that go beyond categories and frameworks of ‘secular’ and ‘religious’.

Content:
What are the needs of people on the move when it comes to religion and spirituality? How does religious identity influence the experiences of people on the move? What assumptions about religion and secularism influence global political actors and institutions in how they formulate responses to forced migration? How should we even distinguish between ‘forced’ and ‘voluntary’ migration, when these categories are often blurred on the ground? Students will explore these and other questions in this elective. Through analysis of mass displacement historically and in contemporary settings, students will develop an understanding of current international approaches to forced migration in law, policy and practice, both in general and specifically in relation to issues around religion. Students will also be encouraged to develop their own proposals and responses to issues related to religion, secularism, forced migration and the rights and dignity of people on the move.

Lecturers:
Gastdocent(en), J.O. Wiering

Programmes:
Ma Programme Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern(Modern) year 1, Ma Programme Religion, Conflict and Globalisation year 1, Ma Programme
Objective:
Students will be able to:
Recognize how identity-politics regarding sexuality and gender are globalizing and how they relate to local understandings of sexuality and gender
Discuss the sociological, anthropological and gender studies theories on the ways religion, gender and sexuality become implicated in forms of nationalism
Outline how sexual nationalism are influenced by (religious) transnationalism and globalization
Research specific case studies of sexual nationalism and outline the implications for politics and policy-making
Indicate how sexual nationalism implied in or framing discourses and practices of societal actors such as politicians, policymakers, media, religious actors as well as scientists

Content:
Gender and sexuality are highly politicized in today’s globalized world. Across the world, we see nation states linking their national identity to a particular position in religion to homosexuality, often strongly opposing LGBTQI rights as in the case of Uganda, Russia and many other countries or, as in the case of the Netherlands, linking their national identity to a championing of gay rights to the extent that it is used to support xenophobic positions. Religious actors and transnational religious networks (e.g. evangelical, Catholic) are very influential in these processes. How can we understand processes such as these? How are these processes related to local understandings of gender and sexuality? These are the kinds of question central to this course.

Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern(Modern) year 1, Ma Programme Religion, Conflict and Globalisation year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2

Objective: Students will be able to:
• Summarize and discuss theoretical approaches dealing with the study of culture and cultural change
• Explain related analytical concepts like culture, value, hierarchy, structure, event, among others
• Relate and discuss the theoretical approaches with reference to specific cases concerned with the dynamics between global and local processes

Content:
The course intends to give insight into the processes that are involved in the interaction between local cultural and religious systems and global economic, political and ideological forces like capitalism and colonialism. In contrast to the widespread assumption that indigenous local cultures just give way to overpowering global forces there are many examples of local cultures dealing very creatively with aspects of globalization on their own terms.

We will deal initially with the concepts of society and culture in order to have a firm basis to discuss the dynamics between local and global patterns and cultural change. We will then discuss in some detail the theoretical approaches of Louis Dumont and Marshall Sahlins (perhaps others) in relation to specific cases. At the end of the course students will write a reflection essay in which they are asked to bring into dialogue a concrete ethnographic case with selected theories (or aspects thereof) discussed in the course.

Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Cultural Heritage year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2
Prerequisite(s): BA in theology, religious studies, the humanities or social sciences
Objective: Students will be able to:
· Theoretically reflect on concepts such as ‘heritage’, ‘history’ and ‘appropriation’.
· Analyse the construction of pasts.
· Analyse the purpose of such constructions and link these to contemporary concerns.

· Analyse the tensions in the various constructions of the past in scholarship and (popular) culture.

Content:
Nostalgia for a lost and better past has been a recurrent theme in western culture since the Enlightenment, and also part of the Asian world in the past few centuries. At present, the Game of Thrones popularizes a blend of medieval cultures, the mystic Hildegard of Bingen inspires spirituality and alternative medicine, and Muslim Spain serves as a model for a multicultural Europe. In addition, taking China as case study of the Asian world, we see that the revival of Confucius and Confucian values (i.e., the bases of Chinese civilization) are proposed by governmental agencies and through media such as TV series. Moreover, since the beginning of the 21st century, many Chinese have searched for ‘spiritual happiness’ (related to traditional religious practices from the past) in reaction to the dissatisfying (modern) ‘material happiness’. This course module focuses on why and how such construed pasts are appropriated, in Europe and the USA as well as in China, particularly as these are reborn as sources of inspiration for creating or enhancing political and religious identities and spiritualities in the (post)modern age.

Objective:
· Students are acquainted with key phases in the history of death in Western societies
· Students are familiar with pivotal concepts and theories used to analyse the history of death
· Students have improved their skills in giving a clear and well-organized presentation · Students have improved their skills in selecting, researching and documenting exhibits for an exhibition

Content:
Death is all around us, and many, perhaps most, of the items and phenomena we study as 'heritage' are death-related: from paintings and statues, cemeteries, grave goods and monuments to liturgy and ritual as well as literary and digital cultural products.
In this course, we pursue the topic of death-related heritage via a three-pronged strategy. First, you get to know more about the cultural history of death, so that you learn to better place cultural artefacts on a historical timeline and understand the specific historical circumstances of their production. This is done via a new tool, a “flipped classroom” in which you learn online. The second part of the course takes place on site. We will reflect on the specific nature of death heritage: is providing comfort or consolation one of its functions, and if so how does this affect our analysis of such objects and phenomena as 'heritage'? Third, we try our hand at digitally presenting death-related heritage in a youtube-style film or in a digital 3D-exhibition.

7. Historical Methods: the Casus of the Study of Pluralism in Early Christianity

(Historical Methods: the Casus of the Study of Pluralism in Early Christianity)

Lecturer: dr. dr. F.L. Roig Lanzillotta
Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern(Ancient) year 1, Ma Programme Religion and Objective:

In relation to the vast material for potential investigation, this seven-week module must have modest aims. It seeks to provide only a foundation for postgraduate study in the ancient history of religion, by scouting the methodological landscape. It introduces the student, on the one hand to the problems and possibilities of historical method in the broad sense, on the other hand to basic issues in dealing with evidence, and helpful resources (e.g., online databases) for this task. The student who successfully completes this course will be better able to:

1. distinguish popular from academic senses of 'history' and chart the origins of both the ancient pursuit and the modern discipline
2. explain basic problems associated with historical knowing or knowledge
3. describe the main lines of debate over solutions to these problems, with their strengths and limitations
4. formulate a historical problem and clarify both its methodological foundation and the possible means of solution
5. identify typical issues confronting the interpreter of each main kind of survival from the ancient past, for example: manuscripts, inscriptions, coins, and papyrus fragments
6. locate and use current resources, including databases, for interpreting ancient evidence

Content:

‘Method’ has two standard meanings: the philosophy and rationale of a discipline (as in the scientific method, historical method) and the specific procedures, techniques, and for ancient studies the skills used to study everything from archaeological sites, pottery, coins, and inscriptions to Greek historiography or Hebrew or Arabic poetry. The latter kind of method is usually taught in conjunction with the specific material in question. This module provides a foundation for graduate study by surveying the whole methodological landscape. It tracks the development of method in the study of antiquity—including Jewish, Christian, and Islamic origins—in both senses: changing questions and perspectives and evolving techniques, especially given the possibilities opened up by the digital age. Two central problems—‘What is History?’ and ‘What does it mean to interpret evidence (e.g., texts)?’—provide unifying threads as we follow the development of idealist, Romantic, positivist, historicist, social-scientific, statistical, social-historical, structuralist, post-modern, deconstructive, rhetorical, and other approaches to the past and its representation. The main goal of the seminar is to foster critical self-awareness about the methods we use in our research, and why: both underlying rationale and relevant procedures. A secondary goal is to furnish advanced students with a basic map of the key thinkers, disciplinary labels, and technical terms they are likely to encounter. In this module students are prepared for their individual projects in the second semester, i.e. the thesis and the internship.

Objective: Students will be able to:
- Grasp the basic issues in contemporary heritage studies
- Gain an understanding of the main global and local heritage organizations, their histories and priorities
- Work practically on problem solving in the heritage industry
- Develop critical heritage skills
- Develop skills in joint research and present the results in oral presentations as well as in written papers

Content: This course introduces students to the practice and theory of religious and cultural heritage. It begins with the question: what is religious heritage? In a first step towards answering this question, students will engage in a virtual archaeological “dig” of a sector of the city of Groningen. Working in groups, they will traverse a neighborhood and uncover the various types of religious heritage present in specific locations. To help them with their field work, students will engage with key documents from the field of heritage studies. They examine how world heritage organizations, such as the UNESCO have come to define religious heritage as comprising both “tangible”, i.e. physical, and “intangible”, i.e., ritual and cultural forms of heritage. In the second section of this course, students will engage with the literature on “critical heritage studies”. They will then work in teams to come up with criteria for what the critical heritage of religion might entail. Students will have meetings with practitioners of cultural heritage in local government, museums or religious heritage organizations. In a final project, student groups will apply the knowledge gained to trial one of the heritage organizations in the Netherlands and come up with a policy recommendation or a proposal for an exhibit or public outreach campaign.

10. Jews, Christians and Others: Pluralism and Politics in the Graeco-Roman World

THMJCOE10 (Jews, Christians and Others: Pluralism and Politics in the Graeco-Roman World)

Lecturer: prof. dr. S.N. Mason

Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2

Objective: The student who successfully completes this course will be better able:

- to read and understand primary sources from a very different world
- to lead a productive discussion of a well-chosen question
- to distil the central arguments from a scholarly study
- to explain the possible foundations and limitations of a pluralistic outlook in Graeco-Roman perspective
• to compare ancient factors (in ethnographic or polis-based thinking) affecting pluralism or intolerance with those obtaining in modern nation-states and religions

Content:
This core seminar of the M.A. track ‘Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern’ explores basic sources of identity and belonging from the classical period through the conquests of Alexander and the Romans to the rise of Christianity, focusing on the possibilities of tolerance and intolerance. In a world in which people defined themselves by their ethnos (notional kin-group with laws and customs), polis (centre where their laws held sway), and cultic devotion (sacrificial worship of ancestral or chosen gods), what criteria permitted or constrained what we call pluralism? What sorts of world view or discourse encouraged tolerance or even welcoming of difference, and under what conditions? How did tolerated variety manifest itself in areas connected with what we call ‘religion’: as polis calendars, deities, and holy days, translocal sacrificial cults, philosophical schools, and voluntary associations?

From the other side, what limits did the Hellenistic kingdoms, Roman Empire, Jews of Judaea and elsewhere, and ascendant Christianity impose on diversity, and why? Why did Antiochus IV move against Jerusalem? What motivated the Hasmonean expansion, and what did it mean for Judaea’s neighbours? How did Jews/Judeans fare in their homeland under Roman rule and as minorities abroad in the empire, before and after Jerusalem’s destruction (70 CE)? How unified was ‘Christianity’, and what were the sources of tolerance or intolerance among different groups? How did Christianity relate to polis life, on the one hand, and to expatriate Jewish communities on the other, in its first generations and as Christfollowing groups evolved in the third and fourth centuries?

Lecturer: dr. A.J.M. Irving
Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Cultural Heritage year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1

Prerequisite(s): Bachelor’s Degree in Theology and Religious Studies, or Humanities (Arts), or Social Sciences.

Objective: Students will:

a. be able to define key terms and concepts in the study of material culture
b. demonstrate the ability to discuss and give examples of the relationship between religious material culture and belief

c. be able to identify overlaps and tensions between religious and non-religious appropriates and uses of objects, sites, and practices of religious heritage
d. have experience of applying object theories to the analysis of specific religious objects, practices or sites
e. demonstrate initiative in original research
f. acquire experience in collaborating with heritage agencies
g. be able employ a digital humanities tool or research method in the analysis of material culture

Content: “Materiality mediates belief ... material objects and practices both enable it and enact it.” (Morgan 2010)

What can things and their uses teach us about religion?

This course focuses resolutely on religious things - and not merely as “props for a [religious] way of life” as objects of interest in themselves (Hodder 2012). It challenges the largely Western assumption that belief (understood as an interior assent to certain fundamental propositions) is prior to the objects, spaces, and practices that are created, employed, and adapted by believers. It asks how believers and their things are “entangled” in dialectic relationships of dependency and explores the implications of such entanglement for understanding religion, and religious heritage status in the present.

We will learn together through 1) critical reading of a variety of theoretical accounts of the relationships between humans and things, 2) close study of a series of exemplary religious objects, spaces, and practices in class and in individual research projects; 3) field-trip; 4) the preparation of a joint virtual exhibit

Programmes:
- Ma Programme Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern(Modern) year 1, Ma Programme Religion, Conflict and Globalisation(Migration) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research)
Objective:
- Analyse how religion and culture inform the development of personal and collective dimensions of identity.
- Analyse the impact of migration on identity formation (in particular ethnic, religious and gender identifications) and one’s sense of home & belonging.
- Integrate knowledge of psychological and anthropological theories concerning identity formation.
- Analyse the effect of dominant discourses on belonging and not belonging on the development of personal and social identity of people with migration backgrounds.
- Write a paper on the basis of a research question that focuses on the impact of migration and dominant discourses of selfing & othering on one’s sense of identity and home & belonging.

Content: The central topic in this course unit is the impact of migration on one’s sense of identity and home & belonging. The themes will be studied from psychological and anthropological perspectives. Students will apply the theoretical framework discussed in class to a novel or memoir written by a diasporic author.

14. Muslims and non-Muslims: The Emergence of the Islamic State in the Late Antiquity

ThMMNME5

(Muslims and non-Muslims: The Emergence of the Islamic State in the Late Antiquity)

Lecturer: C.E. Wilde PhD.
Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern(Ancient) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2

Objective: Understanding of the origins of Islam as religion, community and polity, particularly the interaction between “Islamic” institutions and pre-Islamic ones. Students will gain working knowledge of key concepts used in early texts describing the relationship between “Muslims” and others.

Content: A common explanation for the rise of Islam is that it filled the vacuum left by the decaying Roman and Sasanian empires. But, in addition to allusions to the Byzantines (Rūm), the Qur’ān also knows of the Christological controversies of the 5th century that shaped the Christian groups that, in the 7th century, would come under Arab/Muslim rule. It also mentions various religious officials and structures (monks - rabbis - churches - synagogues - etc.), and comments on distinctions between settled and nomadic lifestyles. Assuming the first core seminar and building upon it, this course explores the rise of Islam in the context of late antiquity and examines the ways in which Islam adopted, challenged, and changed pre-existing political-religious structures and discourses. Topics to be covered include the formative moments in the shaping of the nascent ‘Islamic’ identity, the shift from emperor to caliph (including the significance of his various titles: imam, amir al-mu’minin, etc.), including administrative details (such as taxation), the protection (dhimma) afforded the Peoples of the Book, the nature of asabiyya (group-feeling) in cities, country and desert, the discourse surrounding ‘Arabness’ and tribal identity, the tension between mu’min and muslim.

15. Mysticism and Science in European Culture (Mysticism and Science in European Culture) THM-MSPEH

Lecturer: prof. dr. C.K.M. von Stuckrad
Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Cultural Heritage year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1

Objective: At the end of this course, students
- will have a good understanding of the theoretical discussion about science and mysticism;
- will have a basic knowledge of the history of mysticism, Jewish and Christian Kabbalah, and the “occult sciences,” including the philosophies of nature that are attached to them;
- will have a critical awareness of the methodological issues related to narratives of enlightenment, secularism, and European modernity.

Content: Mysticism and science have often been presented as two entirely distinct domains. However, as recent research into mystical, esoteric, and “occult” traditions in Europe has shown, such a distinction does not adequately reflect historical developments. Before the emergence in the nineteenth century of what we today call “science,” natural philosophy and mystic readings of the cosmos had been an important part of European thinking. This course familiarizes students with the main aspects of this discussion and exemplifies the theme with historical cases taken from Jewish and Christian Kabbalah, alchemy, astrology, and philosophies of nature from the Middle Ages to the modern period.

Lecturer: dr. J.K. Muthert (Contact)
Programmes: Ma Programme in Spiritual Care year 1, Ma Programme Religion, Health and Wellbeing - Ethics and diversity year 1, open modules of Theology and Religious Studies year 1, parttime Ma in Spiritual Care year 1

Prerequisite(s): Psychology of Religion - introduction
- Deze cursus dient als entreevoorwaarde voor de stage geestelijke verzorging. Dat betekent voor de november-stage-groep dat men gemiddeld een voldoende staat voor de opdrachten.
- Voor deze cursus geldt een aanwezigheidsverplichting conform de Onderwijs-en Examenregeling.

Objective:
- Sensitivity to psychological problems and the grey area between mental health and mental illness.
- Familiarity with several key psychopathological images (from a psychoanalytical perspective as well as the diagnostic systems DSM-V and ICD-10) and an understanding of how these may affect religion.
- Familiarity with developmental psychology and psychoanalytical developmental psychology.
- Understanding of the role of symbols and rituals in mental health/illness.

Content: Psychopathology; psychological theory formation concerning the relationship between mental health and religion.

Lecturer: prof. dr. J.T.A.G.M. van Ruiten
Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Cultural Heritage year 1, Ma Programme Religion and Pluralism, Ancient and Modern(Ancient) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2

Objective:
- Skills in setting up research projects to examine the ways in which certain Jewish and Christian traditions deal with biblical data.
- Skills in oral and written justifications of the results of individual research.
- An understanding of the hows and whys of various interpretations of a given biblical text. Skills in applying these hermeneutic insights to other interpretations.

Content:
This module explores the reception history of the Bible and other authoritative texts. Major themes include the processes through which ancient stories and concepts were incorporated into scripture, as well as their interpretations in varying historical, political, and sociocultural conditions.
In the introductory sessions we reflect on basic questions regarding reception history. Then we look at the reception and interpretation of texts and traditions in a range of sources: especially in the Bible itself, and early Jewish literature of the Second Temple period. Using specific examples drawn from themes (e.g. creation, the flood, eschatology) and figures (e.g. Abraham, Joseph) found in these sources, we compare interpretations of authoritative texts in these individual traditions. How have religious or political authorities used these authoritative texts? What challenges arise when a narrative found in one source is re-used in another source, or by another tradition? The sessions conclude with a general hermeneutical reflection on the reception of authoritative texts in ancient times, preparing students for critical engagement with the contemporary use of authoritative texts in religious or political circles. Assessment: Self-study, assignments, presentations, paper.

18. Religion and the Politics of Human Rights: Critical Perspectives

THM-RPHR5
(Religion and the Politics of Human Rights: Critical Perspectives)

Objective: Students will become familiar with historic and contemporary debates surrounding the interaction of ‘religion’ and ‘rights’, including theoretical questions concerning the grounding of human rights, the practical application of rights-based law, and the politics of efforts to enforce religious rights worldwide. They will be exposed to material from a range of disciplines, academic stances, and geographic regions, and will learn to approach legal instruments as ethnographic data. They will critically engage with the ‘real world’ effects of rights-based activism, and will learn to reflect on the responsibilities and ethical challenges associated with research in this area, grappling with the implications - both positive and negative - of politically engaged scholarship.

More generally, students will improve their critical thinking and analytic reading skills; their written and oral communication skills, on which they will be assessed; their understanding of rights-based law; and their knowledge of the practical, theoretical, and ethical issues associated with the potentially incommensurate worlds of law and religion.

Content: What does it mean to be ‘human’, and why might we possess, bear, or ascribe inalienable rights on the basis of this category? This course focuses on the intersection of law and religion through the lens of rights-based discourse. Beginning with theoretical questions concerning the grounds on which human rights are thought to rest, we will then explore the politics, both local and global, of attempts to bring about a rights-based world. We will consider, in particular, the right to freedom of religion, and the consequences of efforts to export ‘universal’ standards in a particularistic world. By examining the interaction of religion and rights, we will explore such themes as the relationship between religious norms and state and non-state law; challenges to the ostensibly ‘secular’ character of modern law; and the geopolitical consequences of interventionist approaches to ensuring religious liberty.

Programmes: Ma Programme Religion, Conflict and Globalisation year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1

Objective: At the end of this course, students will be able to:
· Describe and analyse, both orally and in writing, the intersections of religion, conflict and globalization in historical and contemporary contexts.
· Outline dominant approaches to studying religion, conflict and globalization in academia, policy and practice, as well as dominant critiques of these approaches.
· Understand the significance of ‘culture’, ‘society’, ‘politics’ and ‘power’, both conceptually and in practice, when studying religion, conflict and globalization.

Content: This course will introduce students to the dominant theoretical approaches applied to the study of religion, conflict and globalization in the degree program. It will outline mainstream approaches to defining these three core concepts, along with the key critiques of these mainstream approaches and their implications for scholarship, policy and practice. Students will be exposed to a variety of disciplinary approaches including anthropology, political sociology, political philosophy and International Relations. Additional core insights will be the significance of ‘culture’, ‘society’, ‘politics’ and ‘power’ both as contested concepts and as factors affecting relationships amongst religion, conflict and globalization. The course will equip students with the necessary foundational knowledge and critical analytical skills to be further developed and applied throughout the rest of the degree program and in the final thesis.

Objective: Students will be able to:
Articulate how gender and sexuality vary cross-culturally and how this has informed theorizing these terms
Identify the ways in which religion is implicated in the formation of gender, sexuality and subjectivity
Contribute scholarly insights to public debates on the role of religion in relation to gender, sexuality and embodiment.

Content: Many conflicts in which religion is involved focus on gender and sexuality. Religious traditions often work on the body, through gendered practices of dressing, gesture, posture, ritual and more materially, such as cutting (e.g. male and female circumcision), scarring, and tattooing. So how can we conceptualize the relationship between religion, gender and sexuality both on the level of politicized societal debates and the level of individual subjectivities?
This course will focus on learning to recognize and conceptualize the links between religion, gender and sexuality. We will first discuss some of the classic authors on these topics. The second part of the course is focused on discussing ethnographic research detailing how sexuality and gender are shaped culturally and religiously. Students will be asked to go deeply into one ethnographic context and communicate their insights to their fellow students and via an essay.
This course will make use of literature from anthropology, gender studies, critical theory and philosophy.

Objective: Students will be able to:
- Understand theoretical and conceptual debates surrounding religion, violence, religious peacebuilding and conflict transformation.
- Analyze and critique different theoretical and conceptual interpretations at the intersection of religion, violence and peacebuilding and conflict transformation.
- Demonstrate arguments surrounding religion, violence peacebuilding and conflict transformation through an assessed written essay.
- Appreciate the socio-economic and political complexities surrounding religion, religious violence, religious conflict transformation, peace and reconciliation in different societies
- Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of specific case studies, involving religion, violence and/or peacebuilding and conflict transformation
- Develop some skills to analyse conflicts and facilitate peacebuilding and conflict transformation initiatives

Content: This course deals with fundamental questions at the intersection of the discourse and practice of religion, violence and conflict transformation. It will examine how these concepts interrelate and will investigate assumptions that lie behind their use, as well as how they are put into practice. The following elements will be interrogated: the discourse and practice of peacebuilding and conflict transformation; the history and development of religious violence and religious peacebuilding/conflict transformation; religion and reconciliation; transitional justice and religion; religion and conflict; fundamentalism and religious violence; women, religion and peacebuilding; religion, ritual and peacebuilding. The course shall be interdisciplinary, that is using analytical tools from disciplines such as religious studies, sociology, history, theology, anthropology, politics, law, peacebuilding and reconciliation studies etc. Students are invited to participate actively by going beyond describing issues to critically analyzing and interrogating theoretical underpinnings of religion, violence and conflict transformation. Case studies such as South Africa, Israel/Palestine, Zimbabwe, and Northern Ireland inter alia against the backdrop of globalization shall be deployed to facilitate analysis. Various religious traditions including Christianity, Islam, Buddhism, and African Religions shall be referred to whenever relevant.

Objective: Students will be able to:

- Apply methods as listed in the overview to deliver heritage.
- Conduct research in heritage studies.
- Be able to ‘sell’ heritage to professional and general audiences.

Content: The module aims at preparing the students for their individual projects in the second semester i.e. the thesis and the internship, bringing together more practical skills (economic, organizational and managerial aspects of constructing heritage and making it accessible) and the necessary research skills the students need for their projects (such as interview techniques, discourse analysis, digital humanities, hermeneutics, theory of aesthetics, more advanced aspects of cultural studies, historical methods). The idea is that students must be well prepared both theoretically and practically. Typically, the classes have the format of a one- or a half day clinic, which will be focused on a specific topic.

Contact: dr. J. Martínez - Ariño
Lecturer: dr. J. Martínez - Ariño (Contact)
Programmes: Ma Programme Religion, Conflict and Globalisation year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1

Objective: Students will be able to:

- Demarcate a research topic for their thesis based on their own literature research
- Assess the feasibility of their proposed research based on preparatory network conversations with professionals with expertise concerning their research topics
- Outline a conceptual framework suited to their research
- Formulate a research question and sub-questions that follow from the conceptual framework
- Operationalize these research questions
- Make an informed decision on the research methodologies that will be used, reflecting on science-theoretical positioning and ethics of research, linked to their research question and conceptual framework
- Indicate what data they will gather and how they will analyze this data, linked to their research question and conceptual framework

Content: This course will prepare students for researching and writing their thesis. It will introduce the notion of the research cycle, and will focus on the sub-cycle of the research design. The course is designed in such a way that it will take students through the steps of designing their own research, in consultation with their supervisors. Furthermore, the course will include training in specific social scientific research methods for data gathering and analysis, such as interviewing, discourse analysis, ethnographic research and mixed methods. Finally, research ethics will be discussed and students will have to write an ethical statement before their research design can be graded and approved. Students have to pass this course in order to qualify for the final phase of research and writing for their thesis.

Credits (EC): 5
Period: 1.2
Format: peer review, readings, discussion, lectures and seminars
Assessment: assignment(s), participation, project assignment
Further literature will be specified in the course guide.
Remarks: This course depends very much on your own initiative in reading, networking and writing a research proposal.
- If you do not pass this course, you will not be allowed to start your research. If students do not pass the resit, they will have to retake this course the following year.
- Assessment of this course will be based on attendance and participation in class (10%), the preparatory assignment (30%) and the final research proposal (60%).
- Research master students, have a different course code: THRM-SSRM5. For these students there will be formulated an extra assignment.
- Workload: lectures and seminars 7x3 hours = 21 hours, individual work (reading literature, preparing assignment, doing peer review exercises) 50 hours, preparing research proposal 70 hours.

24. Spiritual Care - Practical Placement or Research Placement
(geistelijke verzorging - stage)

Contact: dr. J.K. Muthert
Lecturers: dr. A. Visser-Nieraeth, dr. J.K. Muthert (Contact), drs. G. Wiersma
Programmes: Ma Programme in Spiritual Care year 1, parttime Ma in Spiritual Care year 1

Prerequisite(s): The assignments of the course modules GV and Psychopathology and Religion are finished sufficiently. Candidates for a research placement must have demonstrable research qualities.

Objective: N.B. Students can choose between a practical placement and a research placement (see also under Comments.

Practical placement:
- The ability to apply the knowledge, understanding and skills that are needed to guide people professionally in philosophical and existential questions and problems.
- An understanding of one’s own attitudes and behaviour towards clients.
- The first steps in developing a professional and philosophical identity as a spiritual carer.
- The ability to maintain professional contact with clients.
- The ability to cooperate with colleagues and representatives of other disciplines.
- Understanding the organization, policy and decision-making structure of institutions and their visions concerning care provision and policy.
- The ability to study small-scale research questions in practice from the perspectives of spiritual care, ethics and religious psychology.

Research placement:
- The ability to conduct research in the field of spiritual care based on a concrete research question and to write an academically sound report on this.
- Understanding the organization, policy and decision-making structure of institutions and their visions concerning care provision and policy.
- The ability to apply knowledge, understanding and skills to policy and organization in spiritual care.

Content: The placement, also a research placement, is supervised from both the work floor and the Faculty. Additional supervision (sometimes in a group) is given during a practical placement.

Special focus areas are given in the learning outcomes.

Credits (EC): 15

Period: (Het instroommoment is november of januari. Deeltijders ingestroemd in 2017-2018 volgen de stage in het tweede jaar van hun studie, na hun scriptie. en voor 20 EC in plaats van 15 EC)

Format: workshops, supervised research, practical training, supervision

Assessment: work placement report

Remarks: In order to qualify for a practical placement students must pass an assessment procedure including an interview with a psychologist and a half-day introduction at the desired placement organization. See Agora GV (Nestor) for more information. The Master’s degree programme in...
Spiritual Care has placement agreements with three health-care organizations: the general hospital (UMCG, Groningen), psychiatry (GGZ-Drenthe) and geriatric care and nursing (Zorggroep Noorderbreedte, Leeuwarden). Other placements are possible in consultation with the department.

· Students can do a practical placement (for those who are inclined towards the practical field of spiritual care) or a research placement (for those who are interested in academic research or a job in the policy area). See Agora GV for more information.

Lecturers: dr. A. Visser-Nieraeth (Contact), dr. J.K. Muthert

Programmes: Ma Programme in Spiritual Care year 1, parttime Ma in Spiritual Care year 1

Objective: At completion of this course you can:

· Describe which positions or roles a spiritual care professional can have in an organisation and how they can collaborate with other care disciplines.

· Describe which methodical profiles and methods spiritual care professionals can use to provide counseling, advise and care for meaning and life views.

· Critically reflect upon the applicability of the methodical profiles and methods.

· Take a reflective stance with regard to your own philosophy of life.

Content: In this module we examine the occupational profile of the spiritual care professional and their position in organisations. We explore various methodological profiles and methods that spiritual care professionals use, we try them on each other and we investigate the theoretical background of the methods. Additionally, we continue our spiritual autobiography. Students who have already completed their spiritual autobiography will deepen their knowledge on methods through a literature study.

Objective: The students are able to understand the urgency of modern perceptions of the correlation between religion and violence, and able to assess this relation for themselves in early Jewish, early Christian, and early Islamic sources.
Content: Religiously motivated fanaticism and violence constitute a threat to human civilization. All religious traditions seem to have a violent potential. Often, however, the monotheism of Jewish, Christian, and Islamic religion is particularly suspected of an aggressive and intolerant potential. Leading figures in all three traditions have turned, at various times, to the exclusion and even violent persecution of people and ideas deemed alien. Sacred texts and ideas drawn from them can play a major role in motivating and justifying the actions of group members. Violent or intolerant behaviour can, from both insider and outside-observer perspectives, reduce the great tradition to a single essence, for which a few selected elements of the tradition are brought forward while many others are ignored.
In this course we study selected texts from Judaism, Christianity, and Islam and contexts in which violence, power, and politics have exploited them. We focus on texts that have been used to justify violent actions in order to understand them better in their original contexts, as a basis for tracking later interpretations and exploring how appeals to these texts functioned in relation to political aims. Ultimately we ask whether monotheism necessarily has violent consequences, and how adherents handle the dangerous potentialities of claims to revealed truth. Historical and cultural factors other than monotheistic thought are given their full weight in this investigation.

Objective: Students will be able to:
- Analyse debates across government and civil society actors over national, cultural and religious heritage to identify different and at times competing interests and agendas driving the debates
- Identify the impact of different definitions of ‘religion’, ‘culture’ and ‘heritage’ in the cultural heritage policies of national governments and intergovernmental institutions
- Outline the ways in which narratives of national/cultural/religious identity are entangled with heritage policy across different case studies
- Articulate how assumptions about identity contribute to specific practices of memorialization

Content: This course explores the complex relationship that exists between categories of ‘heritage’, ‘identity’ and ‘memory’ across various levels of politics and society. Rather than seeing heritage that something that is factual, the course explores the ways in which notions of what constitutes heritage shift over time, and the political agendas and assumptions that influence the ways in which certain objects and events are deemed ‘significant’ components of heritage, while other objects and events are not. The course will further explore how heritage features in the construction of particular conceptions of national, religious and cultural identity, noting also that the lines between what is national, religious or cultural identity are not always clear, and that certain objects, spaces and events can be sites of contestation across different groups and communities. Through the use of case studies, including the Standing Rock protests against the North Dakota Pipeline Access in the United States and the Lautsi v Italy case at the European Court of Human Rights, the course will also explore how the contestations over what is heritage, what is sacred, what is religious and what is cultural – and for whom – have very real impacts on law, policy and peoples’ daily lives.

Programmes: Ma Programme Religion and Cultural Heritage year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 1, Ma Programme Theology and Religious Studies (Research) year 2

Objective: Students will be able to:
• Recognize and describe the development of Christian theologies in the context of modernity.
• Analyze the thoughts of theologians within their historical contexts of liberal and confessional reactions to the challenges of (post)modernity.
• Critically reflect on the assessment of the theological heritage of understandings of ‘truth’ in the diversity of contemporary theologies.
• Relate their own (theological) position regarding the understanding of truth-claims to historical positions and contemporary debates

Content: What is truth? Throughout the history of Christianity, theological traditions have understood ‘truth’ in different ways. The traditional understandings of ‘truth’ – both conceptually and with regard to content – are highly contested since early modernity. This contest has been the object of much academic reflection, for instance in the work of Jonathan Israel on the Radical Enlightenment. Some authors, such as Brad Gregory, trace the roots of the crisis in the understanding of ‘truth’ to the Reformation itself. In the 19th century Christian theology developed two responses to this threat. On the one hand, Liberal Theology based its theology on the universal epistemological idea of Schleiermachers Schlechthinniges Abhängigkeitsgefühl, thereby accepting the results of the modern sciences. On the other hand, confessional theology strengthened its own theological truths and challenged atheistic truth claims. In postmodernism both these approaches are considered troublesome. Universal truth claims have largely been rejected in the collapse of Grand Narratives. The predicted disappearance of religion however has not taken place. This course unit explores how critical thought on the nature of truth became a part of theological heritage, how the discussions and the different results were embraced as markers of the identities of specified groups of others and denounced by others.

- To practice specific methodologies and reflect on the role of theory.

Content:
The thesis seminars will take place every two weeks starting halfway the first semester. During the seminar meetings, students will discuss and practice specific aspects of the writing, planning and researching process involved in producing a thesis on a master level. Through peer-review, each student will benefit from regular feedback. Apart from the seminar meetings, students will be offered a choice of methodology clinics to discuss and practice the use of specific methodologies such as interviewing, observation, discourse analysis and statistical analysis. Each student must follow two of these clinics. Part of the requirements is that students hand in a plan for their thesis and a first draft on pre-arranged dates.
