Why is one person less likely to be overworked than another? What causes agoraphobia? Does your personality change as you get older? What happens in your brain when you use drugs or alcohol? Are you ready for the many challenges of studying behaviour, awareness and the brain? As a Psychology student you will study the behaviour of people, their capabilities and their limitations.

Is this the programme for you?
You are fascinated by people and their behaviour, you are interested in learning about the various theories explaining human behaviour and you are a good listener. If you are a curious and analytical person who has an interest in research and statistics and you feel at ease with yourself and you are curious, then our BSc in Psychology is perfect for you.

Career opportunities
You can become for example a clinical psychologist, social researcher, academic researcher, neuropsychologist or a selection and recruitment psychologist. Some jobs require a post-Master’s.

I was surprised to find a top 100 university with a consistently European top 10 ranked psychology programme. Groningen's diverse, international dynamic sealed the deal for me. With tightly interwoven classes and research moving in a logical progression the programme is well organized. This develops a deep understanding of what we are doing, why we're doing it and how it will be useful down the line. The professors are exceptional in explaining and very sensitive of topics the students are struggling with and lectures are captivating.
