Acknowledgements

The long journey of my doctoral study has ended. It is with great delight that I acknowledge my debts to those who have contributed immensely to the success of the project. First of all, I am highly indebted to my promoter Prof. dr. Jeltje van der Meer-Kooistra for her superb supervision, guidance, constructive comments and encouragement. I was very lucky to benefit from her rich expertise and critical comments that built my scientific proficiency. She has stimulated me to work hard because of her valuable input. She was very friendly, considerate and always polite to me during the years of my stay at the university. She was always there for me when I needed motivation during the difficult stages of the PhD work and was kind enough to share my personal issues. In addition, I have enjoyed the delicacies and the tour you have organized together with your husband. I hope that our cooperation will continue in the future.

Furthermore, I would like to express my appreciation to my co-promoter and friend Dr. Pieter Jansen. I have benefited a lot from your keen supervision, critical comments and advice. You have been a constant inspiration to me and your support has contributed enormously to the success of this project. Your office doors were always open to me when I needed advice and support; not only in my academic life but also dealing with my personal difficulties. I have enjoyed your delicacies and gained great lessons on my social life. My sincere gratitude also goes to the reading committee of my thesis, Prof. Dr. G.J. van Helden, Prof. dr. T. Hopper and Prof. dr. E.G.J. Vosselman for investing their precious time to read and offer their invaluable comments.

I would like to thank Prof. dr. R.W. Scapens, Prof. dr. T. Hopper and Prof. dr. D. Wickramasinghe from the University of Manchester for their valuable support that started at the early stages of the PhD study. They have given me unreserved support and continued advice. Especially, I owe special thanks to Prof. Scapens and Prof. Hopper for tirelessly reading my chapters and giving constructive ideas based on their rich experience in management accounting and control research from the context of developing countries. This research would have not been successful without your involvement. The visits that I have made to the University of Manchester were essential. I was able to learn a lot. Additionally, the support and encouragement of the staff members of my department (the Financial Management group) was commendable. Thank you for the congratulatory gift you have offered me when my daughter Menen was born. In addition, I appreciate the activities you have organized such as visiting business enterprises and a plant museum, seminars and cluster evenings where we had dinner together. Most of all my special thanks go to Ms. Jessica Bakker, Mr. Albert Smeenge, Mr. Marcel Bergervoet and Dr. Henk von Eije for their input, morale support and friendliness.

This thesis has also benefited significantly from the involvement and cooperation of many people during the data collection period. I want to thank Mr. Taddesse, Mr. Sengal, Ms. Aregash and Mr. Michael (Ministry of Trade and Industry), Mr. Samuel (World Bank office, Eritrea), Dr. Tesfay Haile (Business Consultant), Prof. dr. Abraham and Prof. dr. Ghirmay

(Ministry of National Development), Mr. Amaneal, Mr. Tewolde, Mr. Berhane, Mr. Minasie, Ms. Roma and Mr. Kibreab (National Confederation of Eritrean Workers), Mr. Yohannes (Department of Inland Revenue), Mr. Mohammed (Eritrean National Chamber of Commerce), the authorities of the National Statistics Office, Mr. Teclue, Mr. Ghebrebrhan, Mr. Tsigeahannes and Ms. Manna (Asmara Sweater and Garment Factory), Mr. Rezene, Mr. Alem, Mr. Tewolde, Mr. Fekadu, Ms. Asefash and Mr. Misghenna (Asmara Wine and Liquor Factory), Mr. Tesfai, Mr. Issac, Mr. Tesfamariam, Mr. Tewolde, Mr. Yemane, Mr. Mahteme, Ms. Miletetsega, Mr. Lemma and Mr. Yosief (Red Sea Bottlers Share Company). They were open during the interviews and the secondary data that they provided were very helpful.

I want to thank NUFFIC for financing my PhD studies through the MHO-CBE project. My heartfelt thanks also go to the project leaders Prof. dr. John Simons and Dr. Clemens Lutz, and the support-staff from the International Office of the university, Ms. Madeleine Gardeur, Mr. Erik Haarbrink and Ms. Marieke Farchi. My special thanks also to the authorities at my home university who have contributed greatly to the realisation of my former MSc studies and the present PhD project. I am also thankful to the friends and colleagues at the Centre for Development Studies, Prof. dr. Peter Ho, Dr. Pieter Boele van Hensbroek, Mr. Hans-Paul Klijnsma and Mr. Arthur de Boer. You have organised fantastic research seminars and pleasant tours within the Netherlands.

My stay in Groningen was made easy due to the company of many Eritrean, Ethiopian and Dutch friends. My special thanks to my friends and colleagues, Asmerom Atewebhran, Bereket Araya, Fitsum Ghebregiorgis and Isaias Ghebregiorgis. I am thankful to families of Tewolde and Ghenet, Abdu and Meriem, Letensae and Frank and Sara and Zerai. I have enjoyed their company, delicacies and friendship. I extend my appreciation to my friends Ruth, Mr. Habteab, Bikila and Berhanu for their encouragement and prayers. A word of gratitude also to Ate Wijma, Gerda Versloot, Thijs, my office mates Khoi and Iván, Truusje, Netty and Grietje, Tsehay and my friends at Plutolaan 541 for their help when I needed. Eden and Michael (Den Haag), Hanna (Utrecht), Pastors Dr. Hendrik Jan and Jacoba van Mourik, Ravi and Marianne, and friends from the Restoration Church deserve special thanks.

This research would have never been realised without the persistence and endurance of my wife Fekadu Hailemichael. She has sustained great suffering and paid precious price to shoulder the responsibility of raising our daughters Ariam, Horeb and Menen for all the years I was away. I am greatly indebted to my father Mehari, my mother Rigbe, my mother-in-law Semainesh Okbai, my brothers and sisters Rezan, Elsa, Melake, Selamawit, Efrem, Zafu and Amanuel. Also I do not forget Sara, Awet, Tsigereda and Gherie. You have made great contributions.

Above all, I thank God for his grace, wisdom, favour, faithfulness and protection. To You, O my Strength, I will sing praises; For God is my defense, My God of mercy (Psalms 59:17). Oh, magnify the LORD with me, And let us exalt His name together (Psalms 34:3).

Bereket Mehari
