A matter of trust
Fenenga, Christine

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version
Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:
2015

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):

Copyright
Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Take-down policy
If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): http://www.rug.nl/research/portal. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.
Acknowledgement (Dankwoord)

This thesis is the result of a collaborative project between the National Health Insurance Authority (NHIA) in Ghana, the University of Ghana, the University of Groningen, the Amsterdam Institute for Global Health and Development (AIGHD), the University of Amsterdam and the Free University in The Netherlands.

Many people contributed to the study ‘Towards a client-oriented health insurance system in Ghana’. This thesis focuses on one of the three sub-studies in this study: ‘the client perspective’.

First of all I would like to thank my co-researchers Robert Kaba Alhassan and Stephen Duku. Their work focuses on the two other sub-studies: ‘the healthcare provider perspective’ and ‘the health insurance perspective’. Working closely together and matching our plans has been challenging at times but for most our collaboration has been an inspiring and enriching scientific journey.

I am particular grateful for the encouragement, critical comments and suggestions from my promoters Prof. Inge Hutter and Dr. Daniel Arhinful. Working with you was always enjoyable and stimulating throughout the study. Inge, the long discussions we had on the importance of listening to what people in the community really had to tell us, to understand it and facilitate other stakeholders to appreciate the community feedback, have helped me enormously to develop my scientific skills and analytical thinking. You were a great promoter, giving me much space and freedom to develop my own plans and papers. Even during your difficult years after you lost your partner you were there when I needed advice. Thank you for all your time. Daniel, I had the privilege to spend a lot of time in your office in the Noguchi Memorial Institute for Medical Research to plan and discuss the field activities. You helped me finding my way, connected me to the right persons and sensitized me on Ghana’s ‘labyrinth’ of formal institutions and procedures. Thank you.

Dr Kwasi Boahene, your Ghana roots and appointment with the Health Insurance Plans, made you the right person to guide me getting started. Our discussions contributed to my conceptual framework and the writing of my first scientific papers for this study. The scientific contributions of Dr. Francis Asenso-Boadi, Prof. Leo van Wissen, Prof. Wouter Poortinga, Dr. Ajay Bailey and Dr. Edward Nketiah-Amponsah were very valuable and supportive.
A special thanks goes to the staff of the National Health Insurance Authority, in particular to Mr. Sylvester Mensah, Chief Executive Officer and Mr. Nathaniel Otoo, deputy CEO. Their enthusiasm for this study and their facilitation in the regular inspiring discussions with the management were very instrumental. Your support for the interventions have allowed us to timely finalize the activities and share our findings with all stakeholders.

I also want to mention the support and dedication of Mr. Philip Akanzinge of Ghana Health Services, who so tragically lost his life in a car accident shortly before the finalization of this study. The tireless motivation he showed in searching for solutions to improve healthcare services for rich and poor, even after he retired, are an example for us all.

The work would not have been possible without the support of my local colleagues Fred Ayifli, Alberta Addo, Naakuor Nubuor and Sedrzo Mensah and the many other field staff and transcribers who assisted in collecting and managing the data. The joint journeys through Greater Accra Region and Western Region were always inspiring and very enjoyable. The stories and cultural insights you shared with me during the evenings in the local guesthouses are saved on my personal hard-drive. Thank you.

Prof. Tobias Rinke de Wit, it was you who asked me to respond to the call for proposal launched by the Global Health Policy and Health System Research Program of NWO/WOTRO. Here my scientific journey started after earlier plans for a research project in Indonesia, back in 1998, failed due to political unrest. Your request gave me a second chance. Much appreciation and thanks goes also to Prof. Joep Lange, for the encouragement and suggestions he gave me during my study. The international health and scientific community will feel the loss after also he tragically lost your life this year.

This study was supported by a grant from the Dutch Scientific Organization (NWO-WOTRO). The organization has been very flexible and patient during the entire process. We consider the project as a good example of collaboration between scientists and a donor.

I am particularly grateful to the management team of AIGHD/PharmAccess, who allowed me the opportunity to conduct this work. Mr. Onno Schellekens for his encouragement and enthusiastic input in the first year of my study. Mr. Friso Janssen, keeping a close eye on the expenditures. Combining research with project activities for PharmAccess has allowed me combining science with practice and to transfer knowledge and experience. I strongly believe this linkage is beneficial to demonstrate the impact and value of interventions and the influence on practice and policy.

I appreciate also the practical and scientific support of many colleagues. I particularly like to thank Sicco van Gelder, Alice Ogink, Annegien Langedijk-Wilms, Edgar Masatu, Edward Yanu, Marissa Popma, Laurens Pels and Aarthi Narayanaswamy. Their comments and suggestions for the intervention MyCare have been very helpful. Maaike Veen and Charlotte Wagenaar I like to thank for their time to read several of my chapters and their suggestions for improvements.

Elyse Reynolds en Willem Morelis, ik dank jullie voor al het werk om mijn proefschrift in deze vorm te gieten.

Ik wil ook mijn collegae bedanken van het Population Research Centre, Faculteit van Ruimtelijke Wetenschappen aan de Universiteit van Groningen. Ondanks dat ik fysiek niet veel aanwezig was, heb ik de constructieve discussies en bijeenkomsten met jullie erg gewaardeerd. Ik noem in het bijzonder mijn kamerogenen Billy de Haas en Betty Oosterhoff, als ook Liesbeth the Wit, met wie ik een aantal interessante groepsdiscussies hield onder patiënten en zorgverleners in het noorden van Groningen. Vergelijk de ervaringen tussen Ghana en Groningen, en je ziet hoe gezondheidszorgproblemen in verschillende continenten ook veel overeenkomsten kennen.

Mijn werk in afwisselend Amsterdam, Ghana en Groningen betekende veel reizen. Ik wil daarom een bijzonder woord van dank richten tot mijn vrienden Frouwke Hollander en Svaraj Verheul, die altijd het logeerbed klaar hadden staan. Dank voor jullie vertrouwen, steun en gezelligheid.

Ik wil ook mijn andere vrienden bedanken: Gerda, Bernadette en Pieter, Albert en Ineke, Anno, Mieke, Rens en de vele anderen die me enthousiast gesteund hebben gedurende deze studiejaren.

Natuurlijk mijn moeder, mijn zussen Jenet en Marian en hun partners Robert en Dick, dank voor jullie steun en geloof in mijn mogelijkheden. Tenslotte, ‘last but not least’, heel veel dank aan mijn lieve partner Kees, die in het laatste jaar van deze studie mijn leven binnen stapte en me met geduld en liefde dit werk heeft laten voltooien.