

University of Groningen

A good read

ten Brug, Annet

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:

2015

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):

ten Brug, A. (2015). A good read: A study into the use and effects of multi-sensory storytelling; a storytelling method for persons with profound intellectual and multiple disabilities. [S.l.]: [S.n.]

Copyright

Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Take-down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): <http://www.rug.nl/research/portal>. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.

Curriculum Vitae

Annet ten Brug was born in Leeuwarden in 1986, and attended a (Montessori) primary and secondary school. She studied educational sciences at the University of Groningen, with policy and organization as specialization. During the third year of this study, she started working with Carla Vlaskamp as Teacher Assistant. One and a half years later, she started working as researcher for 's Heeren Loo Zorggroep and assisted in several ongoing research projects. One of these projects concerned multi-sensory storytelling. After the research proposal of this project received the Pier de Boer award of SPZ, Annet started her PhD in 2009. She is currently working as teacher and researcher at the University of Groningen.