Taking the decision of doing the PhD was not an easy one. Johan was the one that always trusted in me as a scientist and who gave me the final push to decide to do it. Now, looking back to these four and a half years that I have been spending in Groningen thanks to that decision, I cannot be more grateful to him. This has been a great experience in many ways and I will never forget it.

Of course, the decision would have been much more difficult if it would have not been for Gerard. I entered your office very confused by that time and, although I have to admit that I went out even more confused, I felt very excited about the project. Thank you for trusting in me all this time, for always having the door open to hear my frustrations, ideas, complaints and suggestions and for running with me in the corridor whenever I wanted to show you a new result. You always transmitted your enthusiasm to me and that helped me to carry on.

I also want to thank my second promotor, Ben. Thank you for your positivism about my research and for the useful suggestions that always made me look at things from a different perspective.

I am grateful to the members of the reading committee: Prof. Jan van Hest, Prof. Dick Janssen and Prof. Adri Minnaard for their willingness to read and approve this thesis.

I started the PhD working in lab 14.245 where I inherited the fumehood from Richard together with his protector angel. Although by that time I was far away from the other people of the Ruffles group, I had a good time there thanks to the people in the lab: Bart, Eva, Francesca, Rik, Jan Willem, Maaike and Derk Jan. Thank you for the nice working atmosphere.

Really from the beginning I met Hella, the first student that I worked with. After recovering from the first impression in which I realized that, for a Spanish person, I didn’t speak so much, I was very pleased to spend the time with her having long discussions about chemistry or any other possible topic. Although I was still finding my place in the lab at that time I really enjoyed working with you. Too bad that the project did not give the great results we were expecting but it certainly gave us more knowledge about DNA templated catalysis and the opportunity to work together. This was not the only time I had the pleasure to work with students, Arjan was the second student who I worked with. I was very impressed with your work and your precision. Unfortunately there was not enough time to finish your project but with a bit more time I’m sure that you would have gotten great results. Dowsine was my third student. I was very glad that you chose to do the project of the artificial ribosome with me. That has been always my favorite project and the fact that we got along so well made the communication between us very easy. I am very proud of the work you did during your master’s, which resulted in Chapter 3 of this thesis, and I have no doubt that you will do a great job in your PhD. I am very honored to have you as a paranymph!

Working with students not only helped me to see my own research from different points of view but also to learn many new different things. Jeffrey was the student that became my supervisor. You introduced me in the world of biochemistry that for me was completely new. Thank you for standing my (silly) questions as a chemist, for helping me to stand the frustrations that working with proteins can bring and for your great contribution to Chapter 4. I will really miss our nerdy discussions in the biochemistry lab. I can’t thank you enough for your help without which, probably, this thesis could have not been written.

Thank you also Wesley for your contribution to this work. You were there to point out something that it always brought me back to the lab to do extra experiments but that it was without doubt very useful. Especially thanks for your help with the work on the light harvesting system.

It was when I moved to lab 14.209Z when I joined the rest of the Ruffles people: Rik (thank you so much for all your help, for your great ideas which I was always willing to carry on and for the constant laughs! It will be great to have you as a paranymph), Jeffrey
(Mr. Woody), Fiora (my partner for international conferences and unforgettable flights), Lorina, Arnold (thank you for being willing to answer my constant questions), David (our favorite post-doc), Ewold, Qian (the only one able to make Jeffrey cry), Jens, Miriam, Wienand, Massimo (The Beatle from the south), Almudena and Bea (aunque empezasteis cuando yo terminé todavía tuvimos la ocasión de conoceros y ha sido un placer) and Pim (my two month student :). Thanks to all of you I had a very enjoyable time in the lab.

Many other people contributed to my pleasant stay: Uxue, Marta, Lorena, Alejandro, Esther and Miriam (gracias por todo!), Jort, Tieme, Bas, Barbara, Martin, Mike, Richard, Marjan, Steve, Rob, Soco, Chris, Hans, Giuseppe, Tim, Dirk, Nop, Jet, Pat, Robert, Gabor, Valentin, Cati, Jurica, Vittorio, Danny and many more. Thank you for being there!

I also spent many days in the biochemistry lab. I want to thank Prof. Dick Janssen for providing me with a working space in his lab where I got the pleasure to meet very nice people. Marcus, Martijn, Erik, Dominiek, Christiaan, Ciprian, Alja, Gosia, Ana, Matt, Jan, Anett, Robert, Peter and Danny (tenemos un ‘proposal’ pendiente), thank you all!

An important indirect positive influence in my work came also from different sources not related to work at all. The countless parties, sport sessions (these ones less countless than the parties), coffees, borrels, dinners, etc ... made my PhD much more bearable. For this reason I would like to thank all the people that made my stay in Groningen unforgettable.
Thank you Chris, Barbara, Tony and Santi for sharing your time sporting with me. Gerald, squashing with you helped me to release my stress and to keep me in shape during the writing time. Daniele, Alessio, Tatiana (the organizer), Tom, Kostas, Primoz, Giulio, Tano (gracias por compartir conmigo tu humor de alta calidad), Jesús, Pablo, Itzel, Stefano, Fabrizio, Manuel and Anamari, thank you for the time that we spent together. The Amigo crew became my family after countless Thursday evenings when we always went for ‘eentje’ but we never knew what the night was going to bring us: Andrea (I miss our discussions about art), Fabio (the best sleeping goal keeper in ‘futbolín’), Lucaaa (the most expressive italian without words), Filippo, Dorota, Santi (not enough words to describe), Maria José (beberáprido), Maria Jesús, Manolo (saca el ...!), Javier (PR of Twister), Lumi, Valentín, Puri and of course, Ronny. Thanks to all of you. These times were priceless; the only thing I can say is: chicken wins!!

I want to reserve few words for the people that got the closest to me after these years and they became my friends forever: Santi, Maria José and Tatiana mil gracias por todo. Conoceros ha sido de lo mejor que me ha pasado.

As I said, it was thanks to Johan that I decided to do the PhD, but I am very grateful to him for many other things. Thanks for all what we shared.

Ik wil ook Johan’s familie bedanken voor hun steun gedurende deze jaren. Ria, Jan, Sjors, Moniek en Sjoerd, bedankt voor alles!

My friends from El Puig helped me to disconnect during the short visits to my home town, in which no word about science was pronounced. Gràcies Vero, Maite (gràcies per les correccions del resum), Maria, Estíbaliz, Ana, Sonia i Jose. Sense els cafènets i sopars en les meues curtes visites no hagués sigut el mateix.

A couple of years ago I met Tom and since then I feel I have to thank him enormously for many things. Thank you for always being there, to cheer me up in the difficult moments and to share the happiness in the good ones. Close to you I feel I’m able to reach whatever goal. This chapter of my life is almost finished and I can’t wait to start the next one, this time with no distance between us.

Lies, Theo, Peter, Anneloes, Elles en Martijn, bedankt dat jullie me thuis lieten voelen vanaf het eerste moment . Dat was heel belangrijk voor me en ik waardeer het echt.

Per últim, vul agrair-li a la meua família tot el seu recolçament des de la distància. Durant tot aquest temps han hagut moments més o menys difícils però vosaltres haveu estat sempre ahi. Moltes gràcies per tot. Sense vosaltres no ho hagués pogut fer.
