Acknowledgments

The past five years have been quite intensive but the achievement of this dissertation would simply not have been possible without the help, the advice, and the support of my colleagues and friends.

First of all, I like to express all my gratitude to my co-promotor, Corina. Through the past five years, Corina has patiently guided me to unravel the mysteries of algal virus ecology. Despite her overloaded schedule, Corina has always made time for me to discuss scientific and more personal issues. The studies presented in this thesis are not only the results of countless hours spent in the laboratory; each chapter has been extensively discussed with Corina. Her rigorous comments and the knowledge she shared with me has undoubtedly improved this thesis. I hope this long collaboration will last in the future.

Gerhard, my promotor, has created a very stimulating working- and socializing-atmosphere within the Bio department which he is heading. I have been fortunate to have had the opportunity to work as graduate student in this group. I would like to thank Gerhard for his support and advice, particularly at a final stage of my PhD.

Colleagues in the Bio department have always considered my work with much interest and they always had helpful comments and advice. Although I cannot list them all, I would like to particularly acknowledge Marcel, Anna, Harry, Bouwe, and Joaquin for their invaluable help, discussions and support over the past few years.

The studies presented in this thesis would not have been possible without the contribution of the many students who visited the lab. Many thanks go to Maaike, Caroline, Ronnie, Gijs, and Klaske for their help and for bringing such a fresh and great atmosphere in the lab.

I am furthermore very thankful to Wim and Hans from the computer department and Nelleke from the repro who have (very patiently) helped me solving my (countless) “computer” troubles over the past few years. Warm thanks also go to Evaline, Karel, and Jan from the nutrient lab, Santiago Gonzalez, and Margriet, Ronald, and Taco from the data management for their assistance and expertise.

Although most my time was spent onshore, parts of this thesis were conducted onboard of the R. V. Pelagia where the crew has always been of excellent assistance. Thanks for your help and fun onboard!

I am deeply embedded to Laëtitia and Vincent for their help in writing up a proposal at a final stage of my PhD; your input and support has greatly contributed to the achievement of this dissertation. Warm thanks go to the both of you.

Many friends have come and gone over the past five years. I would like to infinitely thank my housemates Micha and Tanya, Ben and Joana, and Teresa and also Yann, Phil, Furu, Isabel, Jéjé, Jasper, Nénette, Jokin, the Vézinas, Dephine, Pierrick, Gaëlle, Denis, Khalid, Lorentz, Pedro, Marjolijn, Piet, Neven, Christian, Vero, Eva,
Thomas, Txetxu, Conny, Jorg, Wilhelm, Marta, and Craig for the great moments, laughs, parties hosted by the 12 Balken (lots of thanks to Sander and Dirk!) and, most importantly, for your help and your friendship. Very special thanks go to Tanya, Hélène, Joaquin, Teresa, and Judith for the long counseling discussions, for your wise advice, for keeping me running and smiling!

My stay on Texel would simply not have been the same without the company of the three tenants of Haffelderweg 1, Phil, Furu, and Yann, and their regular visitors Isabel and Jéjé. I spent unforgettable moments with Isabel; I just wish, a bit selfishly, that she had stayed longer on “the island”. Special thanks to Jéjé for the wonderful Korean cuisine accompanied with at least as wonderful Bordeaux wine that we enjoyed during cozy evenings on the “continent”. Furu has been ever-present during my Texelse experience, I am short in words to express how much her friendship means to me; thanks for all you have done and shared with me. Phil is certainly one of the most important person I met on Texel. Phil’s “company has been of a value that I couldn’t put into words here, nor need to because hopefully he knows how important he is”; these words are his, but I wish I wrote them first!! Thanks for everything, my Hosegood. Finally, Yann has probably endured the worst aspects of my PhD: in spite of my doubt and apprehensions, he provided me an unconditional support, he patiently encouraged me, he took care of me in every possible ways and kept me going. I would certainly not have managed the past few years without you besides me, nor would I in the future… I would like to deeply thank you for your love and all you have done over these years. Some more French words are for you at the end of these acknowledgments.

Durant ces cinq dernières années, mes visites à la maison ont été trop peu nombreuses et surtout trop courtes. Toutefois, chacune de ces visites ont rendu les retours en hollande un petit plus difficiles car j’y retrouvais des personnes exceptionnelles. Ont fortement contribué à ces retours difficiles les retrouvailles avec mes potos Youri, Ludo, Hélène, Thierry, Denis, la petite et la grande Sophie, Erwan et Sam que je tiens à remercier pour leur fidèle amitié malgré mes longues absences.

Je souhaiterais très chaleureusement remercier Jacqueline et François Bozec qui m’ont accueilli lors de mes passages en Bretagne. Du fond du cœur, merci pour votre hospitalité, votre gentillesse, vos encouragements et tous les fabuleux petits plats !

La réalisation de cette thèse n’aurait certainement pas été possible sans le soutien de mes parents, de mes trois sœurs et de mon frère. J’aimerais les remercier d’avoir respecté mes décisions et surtout d’avoir été à mes côtés dans les moments de doute, particulièrement durant la fin de cette thèse. Au travers ces quelques lignes, je voudrais vous témoigner ma reconnaissance et mon amour ; ils sont infinis…

Je souhaiterais finalement remercier Yann qui a patiemment supporté, et bien plus que quiconque, mes doutes et appréhensions au cours de ces dernières années. Grâce à ta présence, tes encouragements, ton infinie patience (sûrement ton impatience aussi) et ton amour, cette thèse est à présent terminée. Se faisant, nous tournons un chapitre important de notre vie. J’aimerais refermer ce chapitre de vie / de thèse par ces quelques mots : « … après ces longues années de thèse, ils continuèrent à vivre heureux, ensemble, et pendant de nombreuses années… ». Merci pour tout, je t’aime…
