Unbelievable! Four years already that I live in the Netherlands. It’s long and short in the same time. What’s sure is that nothing would have been possible without the wonderful people I’ve met before and during this period, people who helped me to build myself as the one I am today.

First of all, obviously, my funny family: Papa, Maman and Cedric who are always there for me. I’m so lucky that I had you to support me anytime!!! Papa, I know I’ll have the bill one day but until then, just add it to the list. Petite Maman, don’t let the guys win, eh eh. Cedric, find your way as you can. The most important is to be happy, after all.

The rest of the family is also very important to me. To my Tatas (Aunties) and my uncle, my cousins and grand-cousins, I would like to say a huge “thank you” for what you are: a comfortable cocoon where I always feel welcome. Holidays in Loc are my oxygen mask every year and each moment spent with you is an immense pleasure!

In addition, from all the places I’ve lived in, I’ve kept few but fantastic friends.
To Céline, Sophie and Tony (and Léo!), Nico, Célia and Ursula, thanks to be there, in Paris or on the net, for a chat, a mail or a dinner. Despite the lack of news (sorry…), when I’m with you, it always feels like I left yesterday. I wish to visit you in the North or Overseas as soon as I can!
To Juju and Cédric, now in London and Olivier, still in Toulouse, you’re the best thing I found in the “Pink City”! You’ve been so important when I came in the Netherlands! Julie, your daily e-mail helped me to keep going the 6 first months. And still now, you’re a ray of sunshine. I hope to be around soon!

Of course, my life in the Netherlands would not have been the same without my friends here. Leaving 4 years without a social life would have been just impossible. And what a social life!!! I never though, when I was in France, that leaving abroad could be so full of experiences, so interesting. And that’s how I feel. Rich of all the moments we spent together.
Thanks Asia for making me discover Paris with the eyes of a tourist and for the skating evenings.
Thanks to Kacper and Luc. I could not put you only in the “colleague” part since you had to stand me out of the lab too. Luc, thanks for listening to all my complains, for the skating evenings, for your singing accent and for the French humor in every occasion. Kacper, thanks for taking care of me so much at the beginning, and for being always there afterwards. Even though I’m not always the perfect friend… Thanks also for the trust you have in me, in the climbing hall and outside. And thanks for accepting to be my paranimf. What a luxury to know I could always count on you, guys! Thanks for being yourselves!

Thanks also to Flo and Jerome. Flo, Brittany was our common point at first but more than that, I really enjoyed the time we spent together. I’ve missed you since you moved. Jerome, each time we meet is a good time. I hope there will be a lot more!

Danny, your teasing made me improve my English as quick as I could. Your humor and craziness made me laugh anytime. Never lose them!!!

Thanks to the autoproclaimed “monkey” tribe who is always around in any circumstances: Anto, Tim, Doretta, Kieran, Teresa, Aitana, Harry, Irene, Ruben, Niko, Marian, Magdalena, Daan and all the others. So many nationalities and so many different people to form such a fun, diversified, amazing group of friends!
Anto, can you imagine we’re sharing a flat since one and a half year without killing each other? Unbelievable… Thanks for being such a wonderful flatmate and for being my paranimf.
Tim, you still owe me a “Marseillaise”, kiddo.
Kieran, I will never be Irish, I know. But you have to invite me in Galway once. Who knows, maybe I’ll find happiness there.
Teresa, do not change in any case, guapita. I love you as you are.
Aitana and Ire, thanks for your kindness of every instants, you are both wonderful, you know.
This year will be very important for most of us. You told me how proud of me you’ve been when I finished writing my book and you always supported me. I also managed because of you guys, I’ll never be grateful enough!
Finally, nothing would have been possible without the people of the lab.
First of all, of course, thanks Dick for the trust you had in me to let me continue on a subject aside from the line of the lab. Ironically, our last results on lipid trafficking make the circle closed, coming back to the relationship between p27kip1 and lipid trafficking we envision at first.
Thanks to the entire MCB department, actual and past (Dona, Tetsuo, Tounisia, Asia, Volker, Fuxin) for the great atmosphere in the labs. Of course, some moments were more difficult than others but with each one of you, I have a nice moment to remember. Thanks for your kindness and for not paying too much attention to my stressful, hysterical moments.
Particularly, I’d like to thank Joke who taught me everything about the lab during my first year, always supported me afterwards and made me the honor of choosing me as paranimf for her own promotion.
Thanks also to the different officemates I had during these 4 years, Ina, Fuxin, Anne-Jan, Olaf and Volker, who had to share my lovely morning moods and the stress of the writing.
A word also to the students I’ve supervised during these 4 years: Hilde, Nada, Marcel and Magda S. Everybody knows than for some it had been better than with others but from each of you I’ve learn a lot and I hope I taught you a bit too. It’s always a pleasure to have news; I wish you all the best for what’s next.
Thanks Tini to always help me as much as you can with the administrative paperwork, Gerry to take care so well of the foreigners arriving completely lost to your office. Thanks also to open your door when people have housing problems. I was the number 63. How far are you now?
Thanks to Jan W. for repairing, ordering and fixing computers (especially mine…) and for the funny lunches everyday. Who are you going to tease now?
Apart from the MCB, I’d like to thank Ruby from the electron microscopy, to let me “play” with the EM and to have taken the great EM pictures of this thesis.
Once again, I want to thank Luc for the French touch and the daily 5 minutes of complain (in the good days). See you in Toulouse very soon, to go skating along “le canal du midi”!
Kacper, in addition to be a great friend, you’ve been a great colleague during these 4 years. For two PhDs starting in the same time, our relationship without any concurrency has been exceptional. Your calm (even if it has driven me mad) and your support made me grow and take distance about the lab work and research in general. Working in a lab without you around will be kind of strange, I have to admit.

Finally, last but not least, I’d like to thank Sven. Thanks for trusting me from the beginning, for the crazy discussions, e-mails and unexpected brainstorming too. Working together has not been always easy but we have finally reached a relationship where Science is mixed with a huge dose of fun. I’ll miss it a lot. Thanks also for the help with the writing; I could never have made it on time without your help! I wish you all the best for yourself and the trafficking group!

Probably some of you will say that 4 pages of acknowledgements is a lot. But compared to the experience I have lived here, one page a year is really not much.

Thanks once more to all of you for everything, for this unique experience, for what you are, and for what you made me become!

Delphine.
