ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Four years have passed and time has come to thank everybody who in one way or another contributed to the completion of my PhD thesis.

First of all, I would like to thank my two advisors, Klemens Eriksson and Paulo Lana, for all the support during all these years. Thank you for accepting me as your pupil and for your endless patience. I have no words to describe how important your guidance was for my professional and personal development.

My sincere gratitude to my thesis assessment committee: T. J. Bouma, K. R. Timmermans, M. Di Domenico, and R. M. Rocha. Your comments on my thesis greatly contributed to the improvement of my research, to ensure the generation of high quality publications.

My sincere gratitude to Corine Eising and Maartje Giesbers, from the University of Groningen, and César Martins, Rodrigo Medeiros, and Luiz Mafra, from the Federal University of Paraná. Your support was indispensable for the development of my research project and for the establishment of the double degree agreement between RUG and UFPR.

I would also like to thank the best secretaries in the world: Hinke Tjoelker and Jully Teles. You two helped me so many times in this bureaucratic hell that I cannot imagine what I could have done without you. My sincere thanks.

Thank you Friederike, for being such a nice friend and colleague and for being so patient with my Brazilianness. I know I was quite difficult sometimes, distracting you from your work just to show a flock of swimming ducks, or annoying you when you were clearly in a bad mood. I am sorry for trampling you with the cart in Schiermonnikoog and also for letting you do all the boring work during the experiment. In general, the moments we were working together were great and I am glad we shared the same office.

Thank you André Menegotto, my twin brother from a different mother, for all the conversations, discussions, and nice moments. It was nice to have someone to share thoughts about dinosaurs, movies, science or subjects directly related to my thesis. Indeed, the reflections that we had together about some concepts helped me in developing some of my studies. So, you also were a major contributor to the completion of this thesis.

I also would like to thank two professors that had a major impact on my academic life: Tânia Marcia Costa, who introduced me to the beauty of the mangroves and their crabs; and Murray
Brown, who gave me life and professional lessons that had a huge impact on my career choices.

Thank you Maia and Nina for testing my patience in a daily basis. Now I know I can be a perfect monk if I decide to move to Tibet.

Thank you Mariana, Julia, Lukas, and Youk for trusting me in supervising your projects. Although I probably was absent in some critical moments, I really tried to be a good supervisor for you all. So I hope you do not hate me.

I would like to thank all the people that helped with the lab work and everybody that gave me support during analytical procedures: Leo Sandrini, Maurício Camargo, Marco Brustolin, Mariana Andrade, Julia Porto, Verônica Oliveira, and Gisele Moraes. Also, many thanks to all the fieldwork helpers that sacrificed their weekends or holidays to help me collecting samples in the mudflats: Friederike, Just, Luna, Brandon, Javi, Rosyta, Andressa, André, Márcia, Julia, Mariana, Marco, Thaise, Leo, Thayanne, Gisele, and many others.

I also thank my fellow department colleagues. It was great to have people to hang out, share my despair, or just complain about bad life choices. The beers, dinners, parties, meetings, and board game nights were awesome.

Thank you Nina and Marelle for helping me with my Dutch summary. If it was difficult for you to translate it, you can certainly imagine how bad it could have been if I was all alone.

It would be unfair if I do not thank my good friends, who were always around during the good or bad times (mostly good times). So, thank you André, Maia, Friederike, Márcia, Leo, Kalina, Manu do Leo, Fernandinha, Eli, Tati, Paulo, Murray, Jeroen, Andrea, Marlene, Fred, Yacine, Jorien, Bianca, Gisele, Betão, Daphne, Vitão, Xênia, Yacine, Ana, Mihael, Madera, Aoife, Nina, Rosyta, Mariana, Fer, Marcelo, Drika, Marco, Thayanne, Jessé, Clara, and others that I might be forgetting but that I like as well (too many names to remember).

I also would like to thank to my family for the all the love and support.

Finally, thank you, my fellow anonymous reader for your sincere interest in reading my thesis. I know most of you just take PhD thesis to decorate book shelves, so I am glad someone is really reading this. Thank you!
