On the neural mechanisms of reduced behavior in people with cognitive decline
Tumati, Shankar

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version
Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:
2017

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):

Copyright
Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Take-down policy
If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): http://www.rug.nl/research/portal. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.
Acknowledgements

The past years have been a remarkable learning experience for me. I was fortunate to be around wonderful people. I have learned from them, shared the ups and downs, and had a lot of fun with them. I would like to thank them all for making it a memorable experience.

André, I would like to thank you for giving me the opportunity to take my first steps in research. It was a privilege to work under your supervision. You gave me direction when I needed it but also the space to develop my own ideas. Your door was always open, literally and figuratively, to drop in to ask questions or discuss ideas. The impressive breadth of your work provided fodder for many discussions. Behind your calm and thoughtful persona lies an eager enthusiasm that comes forth when discussing new ideas. I have come further than I had expected because of your support.

Sander, during my first days you made me feel welcome to a new city, a new country, and indeed a new culture. Thank you for inviting me to your home. Your gentle patience in guiding my thinking and pointing me to useful resources has helped shaped my thinking. Your forthright questions and suggestions made it a joy to work on my manuscripts with you. Your satisfaction assured me that my work had the necessary clarity. Thank you very much.

Peter, your lively and energetic approach is infectious. I have learned a lot from your optimism, which does not desert you even when in difficult conditions. Your support was crucial for my project and I would like to thank you for offering your help whenever I needed it.

Esther and Daouia, a special thank you to both of you for being my paranymps. Esther, you were there throughout my years at the NIC: in the beginning as my roommate, then as a collaborator, as a co-author, and finally now as my paranymp. And beyond these, as a friend. You shared your joys and challenges with me, and I was wiser from them. Many times our discussions proved to be prescient, which made me better prepared to face the challenges during my PhD track. I want to especially thank you for taking up the difficult tasks of organizing the interviews for the study subjects, for translating my summary, for inviting me to your wedding, and being my paranymp for the defense. I hope we will have many opportunities to work together in the future as well.

Daouia, thank you very much to you also for being my paranymp. I am glad to have had you as my roommate. I particularly enjoyed our discussions on different topics – on research and on life in general. I want to especially thank you for translating the summary of my grant proposal. You are naturally resilient and your determination to bring the highest quality to your work are your strengths. All the best for the future.

My work was also supported by Fransje and Jan-Bernard. Fransje, your input when conceiving the study, your relentless efforts to recruit subjects, and your feedback as a co-author played an important part in my PhD studies. We also shared many discussions and pleasant dinners at the conference in Nice. Jan-Bernard, a big thank you for enabling an important component of my PhD studies. Without your persistent effort, the resting state paper would not have been possible. I learned a lot about coding and statistical analyses sitting many hours beside you. You also worked very hard to improve the quality of the spectroscopy analysis and figured out solutions on the fly to the many problems we encountered. Huib, thank you for guiding the analysis of the IGF-1 paper. Bauke, thank you for patiently deepening my understanding of the parietal lobe and for your thoughtful suggestions on the manuscript.

I shared a room with a lot of wonderful people at the NIC. You managed to make it feel like home – after all, we spent a lot of time there at our desks. It was with you that I shared this journey. Thank you for making routine days lively. Eline, you have a gift to make anybody feel comfortable. Our earnest conversations, lunches, and evenings are part of the fond memories of Groningen. I hope you have a wonderful future ahead. Sima, you were finishing your PhD when I started. In hindsight, I realize how stressful that period must have been. And yet, you spared time to talk to me and we struck a chord immediately, which eased my first months in the lab. Thank you also for choosing me to be your paranymph. I wish you all the best. Hui, Manon, Marie-José, and Sahar all of you made the atmosphere in the room welcoming. Thank you for the discussions and best wishes for your future.

To all my colleagues at the NIC, you transformed it into a special place with your camaraderie. I am lucky to have been part of a group where the chatter in the corridor, the easy laughter at daily happenings, and the willingness to help each other was the glue that bound this group together. I hope it will continue to be like that for many the years. Dear members of CNP group - Annerieke, Branislava, Berry, Claire, Edith, Elise, Jorien, Leonie Bais, Leonie van Asperen, Liwen, Marc, Michelle, Nicky, Rozemarijn, Ruud — thank you for the wonderful time. Branislava, you were always around with a kind word, or a funny anecdote, or just to chat. Thank you for patiently listening to me, and for offering encouragement and support. Michelle, thank you for the discussions and sharing your scripts. Nicky, you were inevitably the only other person around whenever I stayed late. We would end up staying even longer at the NIC sharing our progress, frustrations, and the joys of research. To other members of the NIC – Barbara, Charlotte, Emi, Hanneke, Hans, Heleen, Jelle, Jelmer, Judith, Luca, Nicolás, Remco, Sandra, Sjoerd: Thank you for the pleasant company and the many discussions during journal club and after-work get-togethers. Jelmer, we shared many a conversation, often starting with a single question and then covering a vast array of other topics. These discussions, often along with Hans, extended into dinners and parties. Thanks to both of you. Remco, thank you for sharing your knowledge in a way only you can do. Judith, thank you for motivating me to make the long bike ride to Zernike, for the board games, and our dinners. Our time in Hawaii along with Liwen was a lot of fun with long drives and deep dives. It was a much needed diversion.

Anita and Judith, thank you for the many hours scanning my study participants. Anita, thank you for teaching me spectroscopy analysis and making the long scanning hours lively. Hedwig, you made sure the NIC functioned smoothly and every once in while you boosted our morale with a little chat. Betty, thank you for piloting my study through the formal steps and for the regular updates. Diana, Evelyn, and Henk, your work behind the scenes is not visible everyday but is most certainly important; thank you. A number of research assistants contributed to the study – of course I would like to thank all of you.

Linda, a special thank you to you. Without your support, my research stay at the CBSU would not have been possible. I learnt a lot during my time there, thanks to our discussions. All the best for your future. Rik, thank you for the opportunity and for precisely pointing out the problem areas. My roommates at the CBSU – Benedict, Connor, Elze, Marcelina, Miguel, Stephanie, and Susanne. We had such a great time together that it was easy to forget that neither of us knew each other before that period. In that short period, we managed to go for trips, lunches, dinners, celebrated birthdays, and much more. Thank you so much. I also would like to thank Shraddha, Sneha, and Tibor for their companionship.

Prof. Masud Hussain, Prof. Roy Kessels, and Prof. Sophia de Rooij – I would like to thank you for reviewing my thesis and I appreciate your willingness freeing up time to participate in my defense.

A small group of friends shared their time with me in Groningen and I enjoyed many dinners, movies, and theatre plays with them. Thank you Aswin, Annemarie, and Nindy – our tryst with theater morphed into a friendship, for which I am glad. Dennis, thanks for the intensive squash sessions. Samiksha, thanks for all the dinners, movies, and talks about everything under the blue sky; you were always willing to help when I needed it. Good luck with your PhD. I am sure you have a great future and I hope we stay in touch. Éléonore, a chance meeting blossomed into a friendship. I admire your ability to take on big challenges to keep doing what you love. Thanks for the deep conversations and for sharing your enthusiasm with me.
My family has been a source of strength throughout my life. It is their sacrifices and strength that enable me to travel the world doing what I love. Mummy and Daddy, you have always put my wishes before your needs. Even when it is hard for you because I am overseas, you make me feel like I am not that far away. I owe you a lot but can only offer my gratitude in return. Shanu, I have relied on your support through thick and thin since childhood. You are more than my big sister – a trusted friend and a guide. Despite my long absence over these many years, our bond has only become stronger. This work is dedicated to you all. Thank you very much!