

Prof. dr. Ronald L. Holzacker

University of Groningen, The Netherlands

BIOGRAPHY:

Prof. dr. Ronald Holzacker, University of Groningen, the Netherlands, is Professor of Comparative Multilevel Governance and Regional Structure in the Faculty of Spatial Science, Department of Spatial Planning and Environment, and teaches also in the Faculty of Arts, Department of International Relations and International Organization. He holds a PhD from the University of Michigan in political science, and a Juris Doctor (JD) from the University of Minnesota Law School. He is broadly interested in questions of governance, human rights, sustainable cities, climate adaptation, resiliency, and the interaction between institutions and civil society in political systems. He has been a Visiting Professor in the U.S., Australia, and Europe, including at Macquarie University (Fall 2023), the University of Melbourne, Political Science (Fall 2017); Monash University Melbourne, EU Centre (Spring 2013); Columbia University, Institute for the Study of Human Rights, New York (Spring 2010), and taught a course on ‘Comparative Democratic Institutions’ at the University of Paris 1, Sorbonne, Department of Political Science (Spring 2005). He held a Jean Monnet Fellowship for research at the European University Institute in Florence (EUI) (Winter-Spring 2006), and was a DAAD recipient for research at the Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB) (1994-1996).

He is founding Director of the Groningen Research Centre for Southeast Asia and ASEAN (SEA ASEAN <https://www.rug.nl/research/ursi/sea-asean/?lang=en>) located in Groningen and Gadjah Mada University, Yogyakarta, Indonesia. He leads an inter-disciplinary team of scholars and 32 PhD current and alumni researchers engaged in theoretically driven comparative research focused on governance, societal impact, and sustainable society in Southeast Asia. He is published in such journals as Law & Policy, Comparative European Politics, Journal of European Integration, European Union Politics, Nations and Nationalism, Party Politics, Journal of Legislative Studies, European Journal of Comparative Law and Governance, Journal of Asian Economic Integration, Journal of Southeast Asian Human Rights, Regional Environmental Change, Contemporary Southeast Asia, and the Asia Pacific Journal of Public Administration. The SEA ASEAN Centre is part of an Erasmus+ grant from the EU to improve the capacity to conduct social science research in Southeast Asia (681.035 Euro). Specifically, the BRECIL consortium aims to develop human and social capital to facilitate individual learning and institutional mechanisms in social science research in higher education institutions in Malaysia and Laos. The grant allows SEA ASEAN to play a key role in facilitating capacity building and research governance in the region.

He is co-editor of numerous books over the past decade focused on Southeast Asia, including Decentralization and Governance in Indonesia (New York: Springer 2016), Sustainable Development Goals in Southeast Asia: Regional and National Approaches (Leiden, Singapore, Boston: Brill 2019), and Challenges of Governance, Development and Regional Integration in Southeast Asia and ASEAN (NY: Springer 2021). A book launch and conference for increased societal impact on these themes was held in October 2018 in Brussels, with key-note speakers from the EU, ASEAN, and UN ESCAP, and professors and PhD candidates from across the region. He is a frequent visitor to SE Asia, delivering lectures and meeting with scholars at the SE Asian and ASEAN centres at the leading universities in the region.

He recently organized a major international conference ‘Transformative Futures: International Climate Change and Sustainable Development, Challenges of Implementation in Cities in Southeast Asia’ (Clim/Sust SE Asia 2023 rug.nl/transformative-futures-2023). The conference and graduate workshop was organized by the University of Groningen, Thammasat University (Thailand) and Gadjah Mada University (Indonesia) in Bangkok March 14-17, 2023. The conference was inter-disciplinary in scope, and focused on societal impact of research with outreach to public officials and policymakers from the Netherlands, Thailand, Indonesia, as well as the EU and ASEAN.

University Profile: Experience and Future Vision

1) Academic: developing, articulating, and providing leadership to the new four new Schools for Science and Society (Energy & climate, Public health, Digitalization & AI, and Sustainability & circular economy) and the University's faculties in implementing the global teaching and research engagement of the UG.

-Experience, working inter-disciplinary and cross-faculty, to address important societal challenges. Sustained and deep interaction with governments, international institutions (World Bank), regional organizations (EU, ASEAN) and NGOs active in the field of sustainable development policy and implementation. Experience integrating sub-units of institutions into broader university frameworks:

- Groningen Research Centre for Southeast Asia and ASEAN (SEA ASEAN) (Director) into UG faculties, 2012-present.
- Amsterdam University College (Head of Studies, Social Sciences, and Management Team) into UA and VU, 2008-2009
- University College Utrecht, Dept of Political Science and International Relations (Head of Department) into UU, 2002-2008.

-Experience: Founding Director of the Groningen Research Centre for Southeast Asia and ASEAN, with 32 current and former PhD candidates, initially with World Bank scholarships and later with SE Asia nationally PhD funded scholarships, with integration of Centre objectives to broader university goals and perspectives.

-Experience: Close inter-action with the central administration of the University of Groningen, the President, Board, and International Strategy and Relations office, as well with a wide variety of university faculties from the social sciences, humanities, and science and engineering to promote, recruit, and organize co-supervision of PhDs, and develop close institutional ties with institutions and universities across Southeast Asia.

-Experience, academic disciplines and methodologies related to political science, economics, law, and spatial planning. Research application to comparative perspectives on two main lines of research: sustainable development, the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), climate and resiliency, as well as human rights, especially focused on non-discrimination and diversity, and gender and LGBTQ+ issues.

-Future UG: Close listening and consultation within the organization needs to be continued and enhanced, to create a new dynamic interaction between the new Schools, the faculties, and the central administration.

-Future UG: Further develop a focus on the interaction between policymakers, public officials, stakeholders and citizens in a multi-level governance and citizen framework, to enable the connection between policy development toward implementation challenges with a future perspective, to have high societal impact of the academic program and research of UG.

-Future UG: Continuing areas of traditional disciplinary strength for UG, while further strengthening the engagement with regions of the world, including Africa, Latin America, and Southeast Asia.

-Future UG : Providing leadership in finding new synergies between the exact sciences and the social sciences/humanities at UG. There should be robust interaction with scientific fields related to the future, including the environment, climate change, and sustainable development.

-Future UG: Increase focus on comparative research, to generate variables and identify potential causal relationships. Small n studies may combine the strengths of case studies and participatory research with the advantages of broader institutional studies. Also good for learning within and across regions for sharing good practices.

-Future UG: While preserving the identity of the faculties of UG, develop strategies within the context of the new Schools to coordinate, utilize and contribute the faculties of UG to meet educational, research, and societal outcome goals.

2) Institutional Face: ambassadorship role, promoting a vision of the UG within and with universities and institutions abroad to ensure the relevance and social impact of UG internationally.

-Experience: Engagement with the NL Foreign Ministry on Indonesia, ASEAN, engagement with Ambassadors from Southeast Asia with representation in the Hague, engagement with EU Ambassadors (Jakarta, Vientiane), European Union – commission, parliament, rapporteur for SE Asia), ASEAN secretariat, World Bank, Jakarta and Washington DC, NL Ambassadors (Indonesia, Thailand, Singapore).

-Experience: Interaction with NGOs working in the area of human rights in Southeast Asia. Participation in SEHR conferences in the region with scholars and activists in the region.

Future UG: Further strengthen outreach to various Netherlands ministries, deepening engagement with the Foreign Ministry and the Ministry of Education, but also to Ministry of Infrastructure and Water, Ministry of Health, and Ministry of Economic Affairs and Climate Policy, etc. Communication on education, research and practice also with regional organizations, such as the EU and ASEAN.

Future UG: Continue and further enhance the focus at different levels of the organization, from teaching, research, leadership, PR and media, on societal outreach on societal relevance and impact. This involves all levels of individuals and groups, from master and PhD candidates, lecturers, professors, and department heads, to policy advisors and support staff, special outreach officers.
